2 Surge of Protest Against Sales Tax

The State Legislature today was bombarded by hundreds of protests against proposed enactment of a 2 per cent general sales tax and an increase in the state tax on gasoline. These revenue-producing measures, already approved by the legislative committee on taxation, were denounced by consumers and leaders of industry and labor alike.

The attack on increased gasoline taxes was spearheaded today by the Massachusetts Petroleum Industries committee in an announcement it was joining the fight "with hundreds of thousands of customers."

Charging that no increase is needed for highway purposes and that consumers of gasoline already are overtaxed, Richard F. Paul, executive secretary of the petroleum industries committee, asserted an increased tax now would add to the cost of everything transported by motor vehicles.

"It would add to business overhead," Paul said. "It would add to the strain on the already overtaxed budget of the average family. It would add to the farmer's costs. It would increase the cost of living. Half of the communities of Massachusetts are without transportation service by railroad and thus completely dependent on automotive transportation. A higher gasoline tax would fall heavily upon these communities for virtually all that they eat, wear, use, buy and sell has to be carried by motor transport."

The proposed sales tax was even more roundly assailed as the House convened today after ending a stormy 15-hour session early this morning which was featured by a fist fight.

The battling legislators, two Republican Representatives, later shook hands and apologized. Witnesses said the fight lasted only seconds and both were allowed to resume their seats without censure.

In the face of mounting protests against the sales tax move and more Republicans today joined the Democrats in opposing the proposal which was believed a dead issue until revised by Bradford's most ardent supporters.

The protests increased and the issue became more acute when Rep. Roy C. Smith, chairman of the House ways and means committee, announced his committee would act on the $194,200,000 tax program without holding any public hearings.

Mrs. Dora S. Black of Merrill st., Dorchester, said her husband, Barney Black of San Francisco, was an inveterate smoker but never used ash trays. When she upbraided him, she said, he hit her. She was granted a divorce and custody of their child.

Charges of cruelty also won a divorce for Mrs. Kathleen T. Willis of St. James st., Roxbury, from Bertram E. Willis. She was awarded $30 a week and custody of three children.

UNDERGOES SURGERY—
Clare Boothe Luce, former Republican Congresswoman from Connecticut, is in "good condition" at a New York hospital today following an operation. Details of her ailment were not made public.

Charlie Chaplin Faces Red Probe

WASHINGTON, June 13 (INS)—Rep. Thomas (R.) of New Jersey, House un-American Activities Committee chairman, disclosed today that screen actors Charlie Chaplin and Edward G. Robinson have been subpoenaed to appear before the committee in the probe of Communism in Hollywood.

Thomas said the two stars would be questioned concerning their political activities when hearings begin in September. Thomas denied a report that Dorothy Parker also will be summoned.

Bus Drivers Vote On New Contract

In their 11 union locals, 2200 bus drivers and mechanics of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway today balloted on a new contract agreement reached by union officials and management representatives. The union's joint conference board will count the votes and announce the result at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Terms of the new contract are to be made public after ratification. The contract was reported unofficially to call for a 10 cents an hour increase immediately and a 40-hour work week to become effective next year.

4 Ford Foremen Beaten In New Detroit Walkout

DETROIT, June 13 (AP)—Four nonstriking Ford Motor Co. foremen were beaten on their way to work, and a new walkout hit the Continental Motors Corp. today. Both developments came after a settlement involving 16,000 strikers and a new wage agreement.

Dearborn police said the foremen were dragged from their car and assaulted by three carloads of men about 6:30 p. m. while en route to the Ford Rouge plant.

Nagy Due To Arrive In Gotham

WASHINGTON, June 13 (INS)—The impending arrival in the United States of ousted Hungarian Premier Ferenc Nagy heightened speculation today that he may become the central figure of a government in exile operating from Washington.

Nagy and his immediate family are scheduled to arrive at New York's LaGuardia Field about noon tomorrow on a flight from Geneva, Switzerland, where they have been since a Communist-inspired coup overthrew Nagy's regime and forced his resignation.

Aladar Szegedy-Maszkak, Hungarian Minister in Washington who refused to obey a recall summons from the new Communist government was expected to go to New York to meet the party.

Ferenc Nagy, Jr., the elder son of the exiled leader, has been an attaché of the Hungarian legation in Washington. He, too, presumably will be on hand to greet his family.

The State Dept. said it had no knowledge of Nagy's future plans. A department official explained that visas have been authorized permitting the journey to this country of Nagy's wife, their daughter Juliet, and a four-year-old son, Ladislav, who was held as hostage until Nagy agreed to resign and not return home.

The Hungarian legation likewise professed to have no information on the probable nature of the exiled leader's activities in this country.

Diplomatic observers pointed out that if the United States decides to lay the Hungarian case before the United Nations, Nagy would be an extremely valuable adviser to drafters of the charges.

Apartment-Hunting Mother Disappears

A state-wide police search for Mrs. Mary Florence Peters, 23-year-old mother, of Newport st., Arlington, was begun today after her husband, Howard, disclosed she vanished yesterday after leaving home with more than $100 in her handbag to hunt for an apartment.

The young husband, a Navy veteran, was remaining close to the telephone, taking care of Diane their baby of 11 months.

Police were trying to check the Arlington wife's movements through a list of real estate agents and apartment owners whom she set out to interview in her quest for the apartment.

Peters himself discovered she had started to follow an itinerary they had selected together. His check showed she appeared in Forest Hills st., Jamaica Plain, between 2 and 3 p. m. yesterday. Then she dropped out of sight.

He said she had been suffering from a thyroid condition and had been due to go to the Lahey Clinic for treatment today. They came here recently from Virginia, making their home temporarily with her mother in Arlington.

Mrs. Peters is five feet four, weighs 125 pounds and she has brown eyes and black hair. She was wearing a two-piece black suit and black shoes. She was carrying the money in a black handbag with a wide strap.

Corley 'Very Sick', Taken To Hospital

Mayor Corley, described by his physician as a "very sick man," was ordered to remain indefinitely in the Cohasset Hospital today as his long battle against mail fraud charges moved into its final round in Washington. The mayor, who has been ill for several days at his summer home in North Scituate, was moved to the hospital during the morning by order of Dr. Edward H. Schott of Cohasset.

Late this afternoon, Councilor William E. Hurley of Roxbury sponsored a resolution at a special meeting of the City Council, asking it to go on record as hoping for executive clemency or a suspension of sentence in Corley's case.

Hurley broke down during a speech in behalf of Corley and sought to recover his composure in an anteroom.

Councilors James C. Bayley, Jr., of the Back Bay and Isadore H. Y. Munchnick of Dorchester failed to block consideration of the resolution by asking for adjournment.

The measure, which held Corley was not guilty of any intentional wrongdoing, termed him "the innocent victim of unscrupulous manipulators, who has been forced to suffer shame and ignominy because of the actions of others." It added:

"He has paid severe and sufficient penalty for his misplaced trust and it is devoutly hoped and wished by the city council of Boston that full executive clemency be accorded James M. Corley if such executive clemency be necessary, and that judicial notice be taken of the plea of many thousands of Boston and Massachusetts citizens for the complete suspension of sentence."

Councilor Hurley told the meeting:

"This 72-year-old man, who I understand is lying at death's door today, has made mistakes. Who in this room hasn't? The people of my district hope he dies before he goes to prison. I hope so too. It is an awful thing to say, to speak of the end of a man's life. But I hope the Lord takes him first."

After Hurley broke down, the Council indicated unanimous desire to pass a resolution regarding Corley and the meeting was given over to the technicalities of form.

Meanwhile, in Washington, his attorneys were rushing preparation of an appeal to the Supreme Court to review the mayor's conviction last year on mail fraud charges in the District of Columbia Court.

As a result of the District Court of Appeals stepping up the tempo, the mayor's attorneys have only until this afternoon to file their petition for rehearing before the high court.

Dr. Schott ordered the mayor to the hospital for complete rest and quiet today after visiting the Corley home and finding his patient transacting a large volume of city business from his bed.

He overruled the mayor's protests and ordered him removed at once to the hospital where he would have complete rest and quiet.

"He is a very sick man," Dr. Schott said. "He has been bothered for some time with a diabetic condition and he has hypertension as well. How long will he be in the hospital? Indefinitely. He is a sick man. He must have complete rest and quiet."

Mrs. Corley had been pleading with him without success to go to the hospital.

"I've been worried about him for some time," she said, as preparations were made at the Corley home for transferring the mayor to the hospital.

"He had a severe pain in the head a couple of weeks ago and I knew then that he was the victim of overwork."

Dr. Schott has ordered that he have perfect quiet. It is impossible to have that here because he insists on attending to city business and receiving callers.

Dr. Schott told him he must rest. He didn't want to go to the hospital but the doctor insisted and I agreed with him."

A week ago the Supreme Court refused to take the Corley conviction. Today's petition asks that the high tribunal reconsider this action. Decision of the court is expected no later than Monday.

Should the court decide to review the case, the rehearing would not begin until next fall because the justices begin a summer vacation next week.

If they turn down the petition, it means that within the next two or three days after the decision the mayor must appear before Federal Judge James M. Proctor for sentencing.

If all else fails, the mayor has two chances to escape serving a six to 18 months' sentence and paying a $1000 fine.

One is at the hands of Judge Proctor himself; the other must come from Pres. Truman.

It was with this hope that the Massachusetts Citizens' Committee was obtaining signatures to a petition which by week's end will be sent to Judge Proctor, asking that he grant clemency in the name of thousands of the mayor's friends.

Mrs. Helen Kopp, vice-chairman of the committee, said that by tonight the petition will have more than 100,000 signers. Volunteers are covering the entire city, going into factories, stores and even halting persons on the streets.

Strike Hits Half Million In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, June 13 (INS)—Public transportation was nearly paralyzed in Metropolitan St. Louis today when Public Service streetcar and bus operators and maintenance workers struck.

Half a million persons were stranded and had to thumb rides or walk to work.

Only taxis and service cars remained in operation in the city. County buses and suburban trains also were unaffected.

(A service car is an 8-passenger limousine running on a regular route and schedule with slightly higher fares than buses.)

There was no indication of any violence as the drivers stopped work, carrying out the sentiments of a four-hour meeting which began at midnight and broke up at 4 a. m.

Company rejection of a union demand that a wage dispute be submitted for re-arbitration was blamed for the walkout.

The company contended that an arbitration board decision, announced Tuesday, was final and binding.

Councilors James C. Bayley, Jr., of the Back Bay and Isadore H. Y. Munchnick of Dorchester failed to block consideration of the resolution by asking for adjournment.

The measure, which held Curley was not guilty of any intentional wrongdoing, termed him "the innocent victim of unscrupulous manipulators, who has been forced to suffer shame and indignity because of the actions of others." It added:

"He has paid severe and sufficient penalty for his misplaced trust and it is devoutly hoped and wished by the city council of Boston that full executive clemency be accorded James M. Curley if such executive clemency be necessary, and that judicial notice be taken of the plea of many thousands of Boston and Massachusetts citizens for the complete suspension of sentence."

Councilor Hurley told the meeting:

"This 72-year-old man, who I understand is lying at death's door today, has made mistakes. Who in this room hasn't?"

"The people of my district hope he dies before he goes to prison. I hope so too. It is an awful thing to say, to speak of the end of a man's life. But I hope the Lord takes him first."

After Hurley broke down, the Council indicated unanimous desire to pass a resolution regarding Curley and the meeting was given over to the technicalities of form.

Meanwhile, in Washington, his attorneys were rushing preparation of an appeal to the Supreme Court to review the mayor's conviction last year on mail fraud charges in the District of Columbia Court.

As a result of the District Court of Appeals stepping up the tempo, the mayor's attorneys have only until this afternoon to file their petition for rehearing before the high court.

Dr. Schott ordered the mayor to the hospital for complete rest and quiet today after visiting the Curley home and finding his patient transacting a large volume of city business from his bed.

He overruled the may's protests and ordered him removed at once to the hospital where he would have complete rest and quiet.

"He is a very sick man," Dr. Schott said. "He has been bothered for some time with a diabetic condition and he has hypertension as well. How long will he be in the hospital? Indefinitely. He is a sick man. He must have complete rest and quiet."

Mrs. Curley had been pleading with him without success to go to the hospital.

"I've been worried about him for some time," she said, as preparations were made at the Curley home for transferring the mayor to the hospital.

"He had a severe pain in the head a couple of weeks ago and I knew then that he was the victim of overwork."

"Dr. Schott has ordered that he have perfect quiet. It is impossible to have that here because he insists on attending to city business and receiving callers."

"Dr. Schott told him he must rest. He didn't want to go to the hospital but the doctor insisted and I agreed with him."

A week ago the Supreme Court refused to review the Curley conviction. Today's petition asks that the high tribunal reconsider this action. Decision of the court is expected no later than Monday.

Should the court decide to review the case, the rehearing would not begin until next fall because the justices begin a summer vacation next week.

If they turn down the petition, it means that within the next two or three days after the decision the mayor must appear before Federal Judge James M. Proctor for sentencing.

If all else fails, the mayor has two chances to escape serving a six to 18 months' sentence and paying a $1000 fine.

One is at the hands of Judge Proctor himself; the other must come from Pres. Truman.

It was with this hope that the Massachusetts Citizens' Committee was obtaining signatures to a petition which by week's end will be sent to Judge Proctor, asking that he grant clemency in the name of thousands of the mayor's friends.

Mrs. Helen Kopp, vice-chairman of the committee, said that by tonight the petition will have more than 100,000 signatures. Volunteers are covering the entire city, going into factories, stores and even halting persons on the streets.

Missing Model Found in Canton

Pretty red-haired Janet C. Parsons, 24-year-old former model who was reported missing by her fiancé, was found at the home of friends in Canton today. Ernest Kilb, 29, Schenectady, N. Y., a professor, who had asked police to search for her, was reunited with the girl at the home of Dr. Paul Chatfield, Walpole st., Canton.

"I never was lost," Ernest said. "I didn't get my letters and was worried," the vivacious red-head explained.

The attractive auburn-haired model was last seen Sunday when she checked out of the Boston YWCA after telling acquaintances she was going to Nahant to visit her cousin, Mrs. J. Thomas Wilson of Nahant rd.

Mrs. Wilson said Janet never arrived at her Nahant home.

Strike Hits Half Million In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, June 13 (INS)—Public transportation was nearly paralyzed in Metropolitan St. Louis today when Public Service streetcar and bus operators and maintenance workers struck.

Half a million persons were stranded and had to thumb rides or walk to work.

Only taxis and service cars remained in operation in the city. County buses and suburban trains also were unaffected.

(A service car is an 8-passenger limousine running on a regular route and schedule with slightly higher fares than buses.)

There was no indication of any violence as the drivers stopped work, carrying out the sentiments of a four-hour meeting which began at midnight and broke up at 4 a. m.

Company rejection of a union demand that a wage dispute be submitted for re-arbitration was blamed for the walkout.

The company contended that an arbitration board decision, announced Tuesday, was final and binding.

Must Ban Talk of War, Austin Tells Tech Grads

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, FRI., JUNE 13, 1947

Tension between the United States and Soviet Russia is delaying the United States from achieving collective security and creating a safe peace, Warren R. Austin declared in a commencement address at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Austin, chief United States delegate to the United Nations, warned the 749 graduates and guests at the 81st commencement that "the folly of those talking a third World War must be rejected."

Although admitting serious differences of ideology and interest between the United States and the Soviet Union is delaying accomplishments of UN, Austin reported "some progress has been made."

"Those who talk in terms of the inevitability of another war because of these differences lack faith in the capacity of America to exert her great moral, political and economic strength in behalf of peace," Austin asserted. "They have lost or forgotten that faith in man and his capacity for good, no matter what his race or creed, is the rock upon which our country was founded and has become great."

Discussing atomic control, Austin added:

"It is our hope that the Soviet Union will come to realize that there is no secret or hidden danger to the Soviet state in the proposed system of atomic control. The United States, after all, asks nothing of the Soviet Union that we are not prepared to grant ourselves."

"We ask for strict international inspection and control; yet for a long time to come the United States would be the most inspected and the most controlled. We ask for a small surrender of sovereignty; yet the United States government and its peoples have always been the most loath to derogate its precious independence."

"We ask for genuine safeguards that the atom bomb will never be used against any nation; yet we are the sole possessors of it and the most able of any nation to develop its potentialities."

"We ask that all nations, for the common good, join in peaceful development of atomic energy; yet we today have a monopoly in this field and for years to come could probably keep the leadership in this field."

New Labor Bill Unable to Halt Coal Strike

By PHILLIPS J. PECK

WASHINGTON, June 13 (INS)—Federal labor officials asserted today the Taft-Hartley labor bill, if it becomes law, will be ineffective in the threatened July 7 strike of John L. Lewis' 400,000 soft coal miners.

Several high government officials who are acquainted with the legislation now on President Truman's desk for action share this viewpoint.

They claim also that many members of Congress who worked on the bill are of the same opinion, but are hesitant to make such a public admission at this time.

There is a popular misconception that the President must sign this bill to handle Lewis. The bill won't touch Lewis this time. It would in the future, but it won't prevent a strike July 7.

Under the Taft-Hartley bill, the President is empowered to appoint a board of inquiry in national emergency strike cases and to authorize the attorney general to seek an injunction against a walk-out.

Federal labor officials contend, however, that next month's mine case presents such a "unique situation" that this machinery will be ineffective. Their arguments shape up as follows:

The miners go on vacation June 27 and ending July 7. They begin their vacation as government employees for the mines have been in federal possession more than a year.

At midnight, June 30, the government's authority to hold the mines expires and the government-union wage agreement lapses.

On July 7, barring an agreement between Lewis and the private operators, the miners will have no employer. Lacking a contract, they will not return to the pits.

U.S. Now on Standby Basis, Set for Action

By KENT HUNTER

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, June 13—The United States is on a wartime standby basis today. While State, War and Navy Departments diplomatically shy away from any hints of World War III, the combat departments propose not to be caught napping.

They are set to mobilize industrial United States today.

About 60 days ago and without fanfare, the Maritime Commission began arrangements for leasing ships from private industry on an "if" basis. Contracts are being signed fixing terms, insurance and costs to the government for taking over the ships—on notice.

Likewise, about three months ago, east coast shipyard owners received a new type contract from the Navy Dept. Bureau of Ships. It contains a "national security" clause, in which the yard owner who purchases facilities built by Navy funds, agrees:

"To recognize the government's claim of dormant estate in these facilities (and) the yard owner agrees to maintain naval ship building facilities, subject to the Navy's right to take over on one week's notice."

The War Dept. likewise is moving to tie up important industries by contract for speedy reconversion from peace to war.

A Kansas plant, now manufacturing peace implements, but which during the war produced rocket bombs, has agreed to "keep key personnel available for reconversion to war contract status."

Rep. Paul Shafer of Michigan, chairman of the industrial mobilization sub-committee of the armed services committee, declared:

"My committee will report favorably to the full committee Tuesday, June 17, on H. R. 3471. That bill permits the Secretaries of the War and Navy departments to extend beyond the existing five-year limit, any lease on war construction plants which will promote the national defense or the public interest."

"There is no question the nation today is on a standby basis, hoping against World War III, but fearing that it is inevitable under our foreign policies."

Truman Glad He's Not Going Over Niagara Falls in Barrel

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 13 (AP)—President Truman, "happy to be home again," returned to the United States today from what he described as "a grand visit" in Canada.

The President was fresh from an automobile tour of Niagara Falls, where he remarked:

"I'm glad I don't have to go over them in a barrel."

He was greeted by the New York State Democratic Chairman, Paul E. Fitzpatrick, upon arrival in Buffalo for a 30-minute stop.

His decision apparently made on what he plans to do about legislation to cut federal taxes by $4,000,000,000, the President declined to tell reporters whether he would veto it Monday, the deadline for action.

Jokingly, he told them he would act "about 30 minutes before the deadline" when they pressed him for comment last night as he pulled out of Ottawa after a three-day good will visit.

The President was in happy spirits as he made a 20-minute sightseeing tour of Niagara Falls, Ont., before crossing the border into the United States.

His train is due in Washington at 9:15 tonight.

Senate Would Uphold Tax Veto, Says Barkley

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP)

Democratic leader Barkley (Ky.) predicted today after a Senate minority policy committee meeting the Senate would sustain a veto of the tax-cutting bill if one is forthcoming.

The minority leader told reporters obviously it would be more difficult to uphold a veto of the labor bill, should President Truman decide to reject that measure.

Barkley said he had no information on the President's plans in connection with either piece of legislation.

Mrs. Cote Decides On Wardrobe for Her Trial Monday

PLYMOUTH, June 13—The legal aspects of her case settled in a lengthy parley with her two lawyers, Mrs. Bertha Surprise Cote, 28, turned her attention today to the feminine problem of what to wear at her murder trial which opens Monday in Superior Court here.

Guards at the county jail reported Mrs. Cote has put on weight noticeably during her nearly six months of confinement. Her last public appearance was before the grand jury which returned an indictment charging her with slaying her husband, Rene, 35, in their apartment in Harvard st., Brockton, last Dec. 28. She was then seen only briefly as guards helped her through a courthouse window in an unusual move that precipitated a legal battle.

Her sister, Mrs. Charlotte Wetherell of Spencer, arrived at the jail for a visit carrying four straw beach bags full of clothing which will be the defendant's wardrobe during the two or three weeks of the trial.

It was disclosed that relatives had "let out" some of the dresses to conform with the plumper figure of the attractive widow.

Any concern she may feel over avoidance was not aided when Mrs. Wetherell spotted her at an upstairs jail window and called, "Hurry down, Bobbie, I've got some ice cream and it's melting." The sister explained that "Bobby" is the family nickname for Bertha. Her legal conference was with Defense Attys. Eben Townes and Edward Stevens and was described as lengthy. It is believed they reviewed all the major points to be covered during the trial.

FISHERMAN INJURED

GLOUCESTER, June 13—Joseph Williams, 62, Hancock st., Somerville, crew member of the fishing schooner Killarney, was injured today when a net-load of boxes and baskets being swung aboard the vessel at the Gorton, Pew Wharf brook loose and struck him. Williams was taken to the Addison Gilbert Hospital.

Quincy Fire Chief Exam Under Probe

State detectives were today assigned to investigate alleged irregularities in a Civil Service examination given recently for the position of fire chief of Quincy.

Nine candidates, it was found, took the examination, but 10 papers were returned to the State Civil Service Commission for marking. Civil Service officials asked for the probe when it was found that one of the papers turned in was made out in handwriting which differed from that in any of the other examinations.

It was also disclosed that the one paper under investigation had the greater part of the important questions answered correctly. Coincident with the State Police probe, four Quincy Representatives filed an order with the clerk of the House asking for a legislative investigation into the examination. The order asks that three Representatives be appointed to determine if any fraud exists in connection with the examination.

Sponsors of the order are Reps. Alfred B. Keith, William W. Jenness, Avery M. Gilkerson and Charles W. Hedges, all Republicans.

CITY COUNCILOR AND MRS. JOHN B. KELLY
She Informs Official of His Acquittal by Jury

Doctor Tells Kelly To Take Long Rest

Victorious in his court battle against bribery charges, City Council Pres. John B. Kelly today was ordered by his physician to take at least a week of hospitalization and then have a long and complete rest.

The councilor did not bear the jury bring in their "not guilty" verdict after more than five hours of deliberation. He had collapsed while they deliberated and had been rushed to Kenmore Hospital for the second time in three days.

Hours later, he came out of a coma to find his wife at his bedside, with newspaper headlines that told him he had been acquitted.

Dr. Arthur Berk said Kelly had narrowly escaped a cerebral hemorrhage and that his two collapses stemmed from an old rheumatic condition plus the severe strain of his trial.

"Councilor Kelly has suffered a slight shock and it will be quite a time before he is himself again," Dr. Berk said. "He must have quiet and a complete rest." "Thank God," Kelly sobbed when told by his wife that he was free.

A minute before, he had stirred from his coma and, on seeing his wife beside him, asked: "Is there any news?"

"Yes," she answered. "We won." "You're kidding me." His wife then smiled and pushed a paper before his eyes. The headlines told him the story.

Then he clasped his hands and began to pray. His wife joined him.

No. End Man Held In Flimflam Game

After Judge Elias Shamon had listened to the story of how Carmine Delerio, 63, of North st., had been flimflammed out of $4650 in the ancient envelope switching game, he ordered Carmine Macri, 80, of Commercial st., North End, held in $1500 today for the grand jury.

A man identified as Frank DeVito of Lynn, and an unidentified man still are being sought.

DeLerio and Macri became acquainted when the former was seeking a suitor for his daughter and Macri brought forward DeVito. The latter suggested Delerio could make a quick $1000 profit in a deal in olive oil and whisky. Delerio got together $4650. DeVito and the third man supposedly added their money, sealed it and turned the envelope over to Delerio. When he opened the envelope he found it stuffed with paper.

Nazi Aides Identify Chandler

Recalled to the stand by the government, Edward Sittler today testified in federal court to four of the 17 overt acts of treason with which the United States has charged Douglas Chandler, expatriate newsmen and alleged "Paul Revere" of the German radio.

Sittler testified he was born in Delaware, O., and after his freshman year in college went to Germany where he subsequently became a German citizen and a member of the Nazi party. He also said he joined the Reich Radio Corp. as a translator in the news room and was attached to the U. S. zone.

He said he first met Chandler in the spring of 1943 and that both were suspended in May 1943 for criticizing the station management and officials.

Judge Ford told the witness that under our Constitution no person can be convicted of treason unless there is direct testimony of two persons to the same overt act.

The witness then testified to conferences Chandler held with Nazi radio officials. These the government held were overt acts.

Four other German nationals, all employees of the Reich Radio Corporation during the war, testified to knowing Chandler and speaking with him or seeing him at the offices of the radio station.

Miss Marguerita Eggers, secretary to the head of the U. S. zone of the German radio, said that she met Chandler in 1941 and saw him as often as five times a week when he came to her office with his manuscripts, and to make arrangements for recording them.

Erich von Kunitz of Salzburg, Austria, a former Nazi navy officer assigned to the radio from 1941 to 1943 as a censor, said he passed on Chandler's copy, but could not recall any deletions, saying it was mostly a political harangue.

Adalbert Houben, who appeared proud of his Nazi associations, told of meeting Chandler in Berlin and seeing him at the radio station. He said he had promised to get Chandler some money when payments for his broadcasts did not come through.

Michael Fuchs of Munich testified he saw Chandler make recordings in that city. Fuchs said he was technical supervisor of the station at Munich.

The government then played a recording of one of Chandler's alleged broadcasts.

Blonde Found In Coma by Saugus Road

A pretty blonde was found unconscious on the Newburyport turnpike in Saugus today. After hours in a puzzling coma, police reported, she regained consciousness only long enough to tell authorities she was a 21-year-old widow from Springfield. She muttered the name of Mrs. Shirley O'Donnell of Main st., that city, then lapsed into a deep sleep.

Doctors at Lynn Hospital said the victim might either be suffering from some strange poisoning or from diabetic shock.

Nelson Foshier of Maple ave., Cambridge, a truck driver, spotted the woman lying by the roadside as he drove past the Saugus Town Farm.

Doctors said her pulse and temperature were normal, a condition that puzzled them because she failed to revive despite a number of usually successful treatments.

The mystery woman was well dressed and the only bruises on her body were on the right leg. She carried no purse.

She was described as about 30 years old, five feet tall and about 115 pounds in weight. She wore a black coat, white blouse, white shoes and ankle socks.

Suspect Freed In Cop Shooting

A 29-year-old suspect in the shooting of Patrolman Michael J. Dowd, Somerville, was released today after Dowd was unable to identify him from his hospital bed.

The man, with a criminal record, was taken from a Cross st. house early this morning after police surrounded it, while others entered only to be met by a barrage of pots and pans from the suspect's mother.

Meanwhile, the condition of Dowd, 36-year-old veteran patrolman, remained unchanged at Somerville Hospital. Doctors said he is resting comfortably but is not yet out of danger following an operation for removal of a bullet that pierced his stomach.

Mrs. Cote Decides On Wardrobe for Her Trial Monday

PLYMOUTH, June 13—The legal aspects of her case settled in a lengthy parley with her two lawyers, Mrs. Bertha Surprise Cote, 28, turned her attention today to the feminine problem of what to wear at her murder trial which opens Monday in Superior Court here.

Guards at the county jail reported Mrs. Cote has put on weight noticeably during her nearly six months of confinement.

Her last public appearance was before the grand jury which returned an indictment charging her with slaying her husband, Rene, 35, in their apartment in Harvard st., Brockton, last Dec. 28. She was then seen only briefly as guards helped her through a courthouse window in an unusual move that precipitated a legal battle.

Her sister, Mrs. Charlotte Wetherell of Spencer, arrived at the jail for a visit carrying four straw beach bags full of clothing which will be the defendant's wardrobe during the two or three weeks of the trial.

It was disclosed that relatives had "let out" some of the dresses to conform with the plumper figure of the attractive widow.

Any concern she may feel over "roidupion" was not aided when Mrs. Wetherell spotted her at an upstairs jail window and called, "Hurry down, Bobbie, I've got some ice cream and it's melting." The sister explained that "Bobby" is the family nickname for Bertha. Her legal conferences was with Defense Attys. Eben Townes and Edward Stevens and was described as lengthy. It is believed they reviewed all the major points to be covered during the trial.

FISHERMAN INJURED

GLOUCESTER, June 13—Joseph Williams, 62, Hancock st., Somerville, crew member of the fishing schooner Killarney, was injured today when a net-load of boxes and baskets being swung aboard the vessel at the Gorton-Pew Wharf broke loose and struck him. Williams was taken to the Addison Gilbert Hospital.

Quincy Fire Chief Exam Under Probe

State detectives were today assigned to investigate alleged irregularities in a Civil Service examination given recently for the position of fire chief of Quincy.

Nine candidates, it was found, took the examination, but 10 papers were returned to the State Civil Service Commission for marking. Civil Service officials asked for the probe when it was found that one of the papers turned in was made out in handwriting which differed from that in any of the other examinations.

It was also disclosed that the one paper under investigation had the greater part of the important questions answered correctly.

Coincident with the State Police probe, four Quincy Representatives filed an order with the clerk of the House asking for a legislative investigation into the examination. The order asks that three Representatives be appointed to determine if any fraud exists in connection with the examination.

Sponsors of the order are Reps. Alfred B. Keith, William W. Jenness, Avery M. Gilkerson and Charles W. Hedges, all Republicans.

N. J. FISHING CRAFT AIDED

Disabled by engine trouble, the Cape May, N. J., fishing vessel Hustler radioed for Coast Guard assistance today from a position 60 miles east of Provincetown. The buoy tender Cactus was sent to tow the Hustler to Boston for repairs.

CITY COUNCILOR AND MRS. JOHN B. KELLY
She Informs Official of His Acquittal by Jury

Doctor Tells Kelly To Take Long Rest

Victorious in his court battle against bribery charges, City Council Pres. John B. Kelly today was ordered by his physician to take at least a week of hospitalization and then have a long and complete rest.

The councilor did not hear the jury bring in their "not guilty" verdict after more than five hours of deliberation. He had collapsed while they deliberated and had been rushed to Kenmore Hospital for the second time in three days.

Hours later, he came out of a coma to find his wife at his bedside, with newspaper headlines that told him he had been acquitted.

Dr. Arthur Berk said Kelly had narrowly escaped a cerebral hemorrhage and that his two collapses stemmed from an old rheumatic condition plus the severe strain of his trial.

"Councilor Kelly has suffered a slight shock and it will be quite a time before he is himself again," Dr. Berk said. "He must have quiet and a complete rest."

"Thank God," Kelly sobbed when told by his wife that he was free.

A minute before, he had stirred from his coma and, on seeing his wife beside him, asked:

"Is there any news?"

"Yes," she answered. "We won."

"You're kidding me."

His wife then smiled and pushed a paper before his eyes. The headlines told him the story.

Then he clasped his hands and began to pray. His wife joined him.

No. End Man Held In Flimflam Game

After Judge Elias Shamon had listened to the story of how Carmine Delerio, 63, of North st., had been flimflammed out of $4650 in the ancient envelope switching game, he ordered Carmello Macri, 60, of Commercial st., North End, held in $1500 today for the grand jury.

A man identified as Frank DeVito of Lynn, and an unidentified man still are being sought.

Delerio and Macri became acquainted when the former was seeking a suitor for his daughter and Macri brought forward DeVito. The latter suggested Delerio could make a quick $1000 profit in a deal in olive oil and whiskey.

Delerio got together $4650. DeVito and the third man supposedly added their money, sealed it and turned the envelope over to Delerio. When he opened the envelope he found it stuffed with paper.

Nazi Aides Identify Chandler

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, Fri., June 13, 1947

Recalled to the stand by the government, Edward Sittler today testified in federal court to four of the 17 overt acts of treason with which the United States has charged Douglas Chandler, expatriate newsman and alleged "Paul Revere" of the German radio.

Sittler testified he was born in Delaware, O., and after his freshman year in college went to Germany where he subsequently became a German citizen and a member of the Nazi party. He also said he joined the Reich Radio Corp. as a translator in the news room and was attached to the U. S. zone.

He said he first met Chandler in the spring of 1943 and that both were suspended in May 1943 for criticizing the station management and officials.

Judge Ford told the witness that under our Constitution no person can be convicted of treason unless there is direct testimony of two persons to the same overt act.

The witness then testified to conferences Chandler held with Nazi radio officials. These the government held were overt acts.

Four other German nationals, all employees of the Reich Radio Corporation during the war, testified to knowing Chandler and speaking with him or seeing him at the offices of the radio station.

Miss Marguerita Eggers, secretary to the head of the U. S. zone of the German radio, said that she met Chandler in 1941 and saw him as often as five times a week when he came to her office with his manuscripts, and to make arrangements for recording them.

Erich von Kunsti of Salsburg, Austria, a former Nazi navy officer assigned to the radio from 1941 to 1943 as a censor, said he passed on Chandler's copy, but could not recall any deletions, saying it was mostly a political harangue.

Adalbert Houben, who appeared proud of his Nazi associations, told of meeting Chandler in Berlin and seeing him at the radio station. He said he had promised to get Chandler some money when payments for his broadcasts did not come through.

Michael Fuchs of Munich testified he saw Chandler make recordings in that city. Fuchs said he was technical supervisor of the station at Munich. The government then played a recording of one of Chandler's alleged broadcasts.

Navy Notables, Honor Guard To Attend Rites for Walsh

CLINTON, June 13—Arrangements for the funeral tomorrow of former Sen. David I. Walsh were being completed today as hundreds of messages of condolences continued to pour into the modest Walsh home in Water st., where the body lies in state.

A solemn high requiem mass will be celebrated at 10 a. m. at St. John's Church, with Rev. James S. Barry, D.D., pastor, as celebrant, Rev. Michael P. Kavanaugh, pastor of St. Paul's Church, Worcester, will be deacon, and Rev. Joseph E. Lynch of St. John's Church, subdeacon.

Ushers will include Dr. William F. McNamara, Clinton postmaster; Atty. Edward Hanly of Belmont; George Sullivan, John T. Burke and John McGrath, all of Boston; Joseph W. McIntyn, former chief secretary of the late Senator; John J. Kelly of Lowell; Thomas F. Casey of Lowell; Joseph T. Kelly of Milton and John L. Delaney of Wellesley. Some 200 honorary pallbearers will be named.

The Navy Dept., for whom the late Senator was a tireless worker and advocate of an expanded fleet, will send Under Sec. John L. Sullivan and Rear Adm. Wilder

Baker, together with a guard of honor and a firing squad.

A delegation of U. S. Senators will be named in Washington today to attend the rites, as is the Senatorial custom.

8 New, Cheaper Weapon May Rival A-Bomb

AUCKLAND, N. Z., June 13 (AP)—New Zealanders speculated today on the nature of a new weapon—approaching the atom bomb in importance, but cheaper—which the New Zealand Herald described as a joint development of scientists from this country, Great Britain and the United States. Prof. David James Leech, said to be a leader in coordination and development of research on the project, was made a commander of the British Empire in the royal birthday honors announced this week in London. The Herald said its source of information about the new weapon was most reliable, but could not be disclosed.

The report said that, although research failed to reach the stage for practical application during the war, the project still was being pursued under the strictest secrecy by scientists in the three countries.

"Had the project been completed in time, it might have played a role as effective as the atom bomb in subjugating Japan," the Herald said.

There was no hint of the nature of the project. One authority said that on completion, it could be given practical application in a variety of ways.

So far as is known, no details of the project have been revealed to countries other than New Zealand, Britain and the United States.

The Herald said it learned development of the project to the stage of practical application would cost much less than the development of atomic energy production. However, the project was understood to be too complex for a small country like New Zealand to carry out to development unaided. New Zealand, however, was said to have the necessary equipment and establishment and would be able to make useful contributions.

"Without discounting the effectiveness of the project as an offensive weapon, it does not offer such a threat to world peace as the atom bomb," the Herald said. "This may not be amplified further than by saying that things pertaining to it are under control."

The Herald's account continued: The project was developed from an idea of a wellington man, who conveyed his thought to military authorities in December of 1943.

Florida at first was chosen as a center for research, but because of the danger of espionage, the work was carried on principally in New Zealand. Certain work also was done in the "Pacific areal."

Prof. Leech was said to have been associated in his activities with the senior staff of the commander in chief in the South Pacific, Adm. William F. Halsey.

Must Attend Con's Tibet Monks Revolt Rite or Lose Estate Against Chinese

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 13 (AP)—The strange tale of a Folsom prison convict who left one-third of his estate to a total stranger—providing the stranger attends his funeral services here next week—was reported today.

If the missing heir, William Watson, 35, who lived in San Francisco 25 years ago, does not come forward in time, he will be excluded from a one-third share in the estate of Matthias John, 65, Folsom convict, who died May 30. The estate is estimated at more than $1000, consisting of cash and bonds. It is understood Watson may have been a witness in the trial of John, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in San Francisco in 1922 as a four-time loser.

Reds Dismantling Reich Factories Despite Pledge

BERLIN, June 13 (AP)—The official newspaper of Berlin's Social Democratic party charged today the Russians were continuing to dismantle factories in their occupation zone of Germany for reparations despite assurances given last January that such removals would cease.

The newspaper also accused the Russians of taking factories owned by Allied nationals.

CIGAR RATIONS OFF

AMSTERDAM, June 13 (AP)—The government today ended rationing restrictions on the sale of cigars. Buyers previously were limited to 20 cigars every two weeks. Cigarettes still are rationed at the rate of 50 a week.

NANKING, June 13 (AP)—Trouble in Tibet cropped up today as Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek ordered his garrison in northwestern China—scene of an Outer Mongolian invasion—to defend China's border "to the last man."

The trouble started, Chinese correspondents related, when Chinese military authorities arrested the leader of the Buddhist monks and reportedly put him to death.

Monks of three important monasteries which practically rule the major portion of Tibet then staged an armed rebellion against Chinese authority and fighting was reported under way near Lasha. The monks were described as pro-British, while the nonmonastic groups favored the Chinese.

Government reports said warplanes bearing the Soviet red star continued to bomb and strafe Chinese positions in Sinkiang.

HERE'S HOME SWAPPING THE HARD WAY

HATTIESBURG, Miss., June 13 (AP)—Virgil Pace lives at 102 St. Joseph street and owns a house at 104 St. Joseph st.

T. F. Howell lives in Pace's house at 104 St. Joseph and owns the house Pace lives in at 102 St. Joseph.

The two men have asked in county court for authority to evict each other so they can move into their own houses and quit renting from each other.

According to court officers the two men moved into the neighborhood at a time when both houses were owned by a third party. Then by some twist of circumstance each bought the building the other lives in.

Friends of the men say they refuse to swap houses. They prefer the idea of eviction.

Detroit Probes Sale of New Cars as Used

DETROIT, June 13 (AP)—State Atty. Gen. Eugene F. Black disclosed today that he has begun an investigation with State Police of the sale of new automobiles by used-car dealers.

"We all know that new cars are finding their way to used-car lots and are being sold at inflated prices," Black said. "Such sales are illegal in that they violate the terms of used-car dealers' licenses."

Black said he planned a further inquiry as to whether a grand jury should inquire into the "bootlegging of new cars." Eleven used-car dealers face possible revocation of their licenses, he added.

Black said State Troopers went to used-car lots and negotiated for car purchases. New cars, he added, were offered at far in excess of the list price.

"Some of the cars didn't even have license plates," he declared. "Most of them had factory wrappings. We have no proof but we suspect that a few new car dealers are turning recent models over to used car lots for sale at prices in excess of the list price."

Used car lot owners said they obtained new models from private car purchasers who bought new cars for resale or who were unable to meet payments.

Informal surveys along Detroit's Livernois avenue which has some of the world's largest used car lots, disclose unusually large stocks of 1947 and 1946 passenger cars, available at anywhere from $500 and $600 above list price to as much as double the original factory prices.

Fr. O'Donnell, Former Notre Dame Head, Dies

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 13 (INS)—The Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, S.C.C., 52, former president of the University of Notre Dame, died of cancer after a lengthy illness.

Fr. O'Donnell, who had been president of Notre Dame for more than six years, had been critically ill since last January. He suffered an attack as he was about to leave for Latin America on a mission for his order, the Congregation of the Holy Cross.

Fireman Hospitalized By Cleansing Shop Blaze

Ladderman Robt. Goughran, 29, of LaSalle st., West Roxbury, was under treatment at City Hospital today in the aftermath of a fire which swept a one-story dry cleansing plant in Columbus ave., Roxbury. He suffered smoke inhalation and possible head injuries.

Three employees fled the building after a series of explosions had spread flames to all sections of the plant. Fire officials estimated damage at $20,000.

NICE SCENT-IMENT
NEW YORK, June 13 (AP) — Guests got a scent in return for the price of a room with shower at a Manhattan hotel today.
The Henry Hudson hotel installed gadgets in its showers which sprayed guests with water plus soluble perfume of pine (for women). Guests merely had to turn the right knob to smell the right way.

Reds Beg Sweden's Pardon for Sentry's Act
VIENNA, June 13 (AP)—The Swedish legation said today high Russian authorities had called and made an official apology for a Russian sentry's killing of Arne Carlsson, a Swedish relief director.
The legation said its investigation of the shooting, reported at a Russian roadblock near the Czechoslovak border, still was in progress.

Klan Surrenders Georgia Charter
ATLANTA, June 13 (AP)—Ku Klux Klan surrendered today its parent charter but State Atty.-Gen. Eugene Cook said it could continue to operate as a national organization "under the constitutional rights of free assembly."
The Klan, in a surprise move, voluntarily turned back its Georgia charter as it appeared to defend a state superior court suit for revocation.
Cook said with dissolution of the parent charter, charters of other states also would fall since they were based on it. Morgan Belser, Klan attorney, said the organization disbanded nationally three years ago but maintained its charter "to keep racial persons from using its name."

300 at Tech Flee Fire in House
More than 300 M.I.T. students fled today when flames broke out on the third floor of Graduate House, the former Riverbank Hotel, Memorial Dr., Cambridge.
Firemen, called by a passer who saw flames shooting from a window, speedily extinguished the fire after arousing scores of sleeping students. The blaze was confined to a single room.
Robert H. Blount and Richard Urie, occupants of the room were not at home at the time of the fire. Officials estimated damage at $1000 and said the fire was caused by careless disposal of a cigaret.

NEW GREEK OUTLAW DRIVE
ATHENS, June 13 (AP)—The Greek Army clamped a blackout on operations in the Olympian-Tiera mountain area today, where a new phase of the offensive against the guerrillas was under way. Approximately 12,000 men were engaged in the newest operations.

DIES IN CAR-TRUCK CRASH
WORCESTER, June 13—George C. Anderson, 24, Lenox st., Worcester, was killed early today when the car he was driving was in collision with a truck on Route 12 in West Sterling. Vincent A. Pezzullo, 26, Johnston, R.I., driver of the truck, was taken to Holden Hospital suffering back, chest and head injuries.

Offered $1000 Holdup Bribe, Lynn Cop Says

Chief inspector Charles T. Duggan of the Lynn police today testified in Salem Superior Court the defendant in a bank messenger holdup trial had offered him $1000 "to drop the case."

Duggan, testifying for the State, told the court Raymond V. Lightfoot, 32, Pearl st., Somerville, made the offer of $500 "on the line" and $500 later if he would end his investigation of the holdup of Clarence E. Cummings, 64, bank messenger for the Lynn Five Cent Savings Bank.

Cummings was held up at 8:45 a. m. on Feb. 15 this year, on Oxford st., Lynn, and $1026 in cash and $27,000 in checks was taken from him.

Cummings, first state witness, told of the holdup and how he later identified Lightfoot, a state prison parolee, from pictures shown him at Lynn police headquarters.

Louis Gagnon, owner of a store on Oxford st., said he witnessed the holdup and saw a man jump into a black sedan carrying a bag. He identified Lightfoot as the man.

Henry Fournier, Union st., Lynn, first witness for the defense, said he was standing 10 feet away when the holdup occurred, and although the man looked like the defendant, he insisted Lightfoot was not the hold-up man.

Colonel's Lady Blonde 'Miss X'

HAMBURG, Germany, June 13 (AP)—A blonde, attractive "Miss X" smiled amiably as she testified before a court martial today that she spent her week-ends in a British colonel's mess.

The prosecution told the court that Col. R. N. J. Burgess was charged, among other counts, with taking photographs of the tall Danish woman as she posed in the nude.

Miss X—not further identified—smiled at the colonel as she identified photographs, some she said were taken by the colonel "among the bushes in the grounds of the mess."

Burgess pleaded innocent of conduct unbecoming an officer.

A corporal testified he saw the colonel clad in pajamas in his room while the girl slept in the bed. Another employee, testified he saw the two in bed together.

Lowell Landlord Sued on Refund

A Lowell landlord was sued in Federal court today by the Federal Housing Expediter's office which asked damages of three times the $1121 which the suit said he had failed to refund to tenants after allegedly overcharging them.

The suit named Venance J. Favreau, charged by Atty. Vincent L. Scanlon with continuing rents of $22 weekly for each of four apartments after the Federal Housing expediter had fixed ceilings at $15 and less.

Scanlon asked also that Favreau be ordered to refund the $1121 to the tenants of the four dwellings.

Television Network Seen Operating Before 1950

CHICAGO, June 13 (AP)—David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corp. of America, said the first nationwide television network should be in operation before 1950.

Sarnoff, addressing the annual convention of the Radio Manufacturers Ass'n, said an estimated 50,000 television receivers are in service, with this figure "rising daily."

Grade 2 Fish Sold As 1, Court Told

Boston fishing boat owners were accused in superior court today of mixing Grade 2 fish with Grade 1, then selling the lot for Grade 1.

The accusation was made by Austin J. Powers, Barry st., Dorchester, assistant secretary-treasurer of the Atlantic Fishermen's Union, which Atty. Gen. Barnes seeks to enjoin from price-fixing activities.

"We accuse the owner-dealer every day of deliberately undergrading fish," Powers testified before Judge Edward T. Broadhurst, Judge Broadhurst set Wednesday for continuance of the hearing.

a "shock," by Daniel Bloomfield, manager of the Boston Retail Trade Board. "The public had thought the sales tax was a dead issue," he said.

"The attempt of proponents of the retail sales tax to impose this on the backs of the people of the Commonwealth, despite overwhelming public sentiment against it, will be fought by everyone who has the interest of his children, family and home at heart," Bloomfield said in a statement for the board.

"Proponents of the sales tax have no interest in keeping the cost of living down. They would add to the prices of essential commodities at a critical time. They want people to make sacrifices in their standard of living so millions can be spent to make up for waste and extravagance of government. "The buying power of the family dollar will be cut to provide more income for pressure groups. Business will be driven out of the State."

Mrs. John H. Kimball, chairman of the Massachusetts Women's Committee Opposed to the Sales Tax, called on all women of the State to register emphatic opposition to the proposed 2 per cent levy.

"Mothers and housewives know that with living costs at the highest figure in history, it is impossible to make both ends meet," she said. "Our children need bread, milk, medicine, doctors and corrective dentistry. Is curtailment of these essentials the American way of life?"

Charge that the proposed 1-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax would mean a total of 33 per cent in taxes on gasoline, made by Fred H. Moore of the Mass. Retail Gasoline Dealers Ass'n.

Charge that the proposed 2 per cent sales tax is a "soak the poor" proposition, and the most unjust ever placed on the people, made by Rep. David M. Cleary of Charlestown.

A warning to go slow, issued by Albert Clifton, State CIO legislative agent.

The charge that the sales tax is "an infamous proceeding" to take the money out of the pockets of those who can least afford it, made by John J. Murphy, regional director, AFL.

Inasmuch as Massachusetts is an industrial state moving on wheels, new gas taxes would put motor fuel in the luxury brackets and cripple transportation, according to Fred Moore of the Retail Gasoline Dealers' Ass'n.

"The customer is already paying 45 cents taxes on every 10 gallons of gas," he said. "Gov. Bradford's proposed 1 cent increase would bring the total of taxes to 33 per cent. Massachusetts motorists already are being overcharged in gasoline taxes for the benefits they get. Massachusetts highways are in a state of decay, while millions of dollars of gasoline taxes have been converted to other purposes."

"The Massachusetts CIO is definitely opposed to any sales tax," said Clifton. "We urge deliberation of the new tax proposals. . . . It is not a matter which should be entered into hastily or which should be decided along party lines."

"They have sugarcoated the bill with a $10 refund for the dependents of the poor man with a large family," said Rep. Cleary, "but they also give the same refund to the millionaire and those in the higher income brackets. The man getting $2500 a year with a houseful of children will wind up paying more than the millionaire with one child. Despite the figures the Republicans give out to cover up this vicious piece of legislation, they still will not be able to fool the people of Massachusetts."

"The proponents of the sales tax offer as their excuse for voting for it that it will help to reduce the real estate tax. Let them point out to me one State or city that has adopted a sales tax that has reduced their tax rate one penny. This matter was stalled until they felt the people were lulled to sleep and they were then going to blitz it through. If the Republicans are successful in putting this sales tax across, the slogan 'Had Enough' will be changed for 'Have You Got Anything Left?'"

"It's time for labor to rise up and put a halt to the recklessness spending which calls for such high taxes," said AFL Regional Director Murphy. "Labor has forced the monied interests to pay decent wages at long last, but they're not satisfied to let them keep it."

"The thing they propose is to dip into the pockets of the poor and make them poorer," said Nicholas P. Morrissey, Int. V. P. of the Teamsters' Union.

The woman's attitude was represented by Mrs. Mary E. Higgins of Mattapan, president of the Consumers' Guild, who warned housewives that public opinion alone could defeat the sales tax.

OR MERELY A BYSTANDER because of—

PSORIASIS

While others are enjoying the thrills of outdoor sports and pleasures, are you merely an unhappy onlooker because of ugly psoriasis lesions? If so—try SIROIL. It may alter the picture for you as it has for thousands of others. SIROIL tends to remove the crusts and scales of psoriasis which are external in character and located on the outer layer of the skin. If or when your psoriasis lesions recur, light applications of SIROIL will help keep them under control. Applied externally SIROIL does not stain clothing or bed linens, nor does it interfere in any way with your daily routine. Try it. Certainly it's worth a trial, particularly since it's offered to you on a two-weeks-satisfaction-or-money-refunded basis.

New Cancer Treatment Seen In Chemistry Plus Surgery

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 13 (AP)—A new technique in cancer treatment, which combines chemistry and surgery, was described to the American Medical Ass'n today by Dr. Cornelius P. Rhoads, director of Memorial Hospital, New York city, the nation's oldest cancer center.

The new work was credited to Dr. F. E. Moh of Madison, Wis. It has been used on cancer of the ear. First a chemical fixative was injected into the cancer. A fixative is something used by bacteriologists to preserve dead tissues, as nearly in their lifelike form as possible.

But Dr. Moh's fixative renders the cancerous cells temporarily powerless to spread. With ordinary operations surgeons sometimes must remove five times as much tissue as they would for a non-malignant growth, but with Moh's technique a surgeon can remove part of the cancer safely and can see whether he has gone far enough in any direction. He then can remove more and keep on until he thinks he has all the malignant growth. He does not have to go farther.

Some patients treated by this method five years ago are still alive, Dr. Rhoads said. X-rays, he said, have made some progress in treating cancer of the larynx. Surgery, if early enough, cures this, but leaves a person voiceless. X-rays, when they cure, leave a voice.

Both male and female sex hormones have proved useful to relieve terrible suffering in breast cancer, he said.

Nitrogen mustard, a new but unused war gas, has shown good results in about half the lung cancer cases in which it has been used, causing the cancer to get smaller, Dr. Rhoads said.

Cambridge Police Nab Thief by Mail

The Cambridge Police department established itself today as something better than the ordinary civic gun-and-whistle club when it caught a car thief by mail.

Last Saturday a Roxbury youth drove off in a car owned by Dr. B. A. Godvin, Beacon st., Back Bay. A Boston traffic officer gave chase in a commandeered taxi and carried the pursuit right into Cambridge where the youth abandoned the car and escaped on foot. In his haste he dropped his wallet.

Cambridge police wrote him a nice letter saying as how he could have the wallet by coming to the station house and identifying himself. Today the youth appeared, was arrested and turned over to Boston police. Cost for capture, three cents—for a stamp.

Hyde Park Mother Saves Sons in Fire

Occupants of two adjoining Hyde Park homes, including a young mother and her two infant sons, fled today when a fire that caused an estimated $6000 damage spread through the two buildings.

The fire, according to police, started in the third floor apartment of Mrs. Helen Mansfield of Metropolitan ave. Mrs. Mansfield ran to the street with Joseph, 3½, and John, one, under her arms.

After causing $4500 damage to the Mansfield home the flames spread to the neighboring house. Cause of the blaze was undetermined.

PENALTY FOR FAILURE

IN HIS ADDRESS before a reunion of World War I veterans in Kansas City, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower pointedly and almost bitterly declared that the penalty of the country's failure to maintain an adequate national defense after that conflict was our involvement in the Second World War.

Gen. Eisenhower noted that the occasion of the reunion coincided with the third anniversary of the launching of the American invasion of Europe when the Normandy beaches were successfully stormed but with frightful sacrifice of American lives.

The manner in which the Normandy operation was conducted was "a magnificent proof of the best in the American tradition," he said, but it also represented "AN APPALLING PENALTY FOR OUR FAILURE TO LIVE UP TO OUR RESPONSIBILITIES."

In the years between the two great wars, he bluntly charged:

"This nation stripped itself of the strength necessary to security and to leadership for peace. Because we did not sustain the peace, we drifted into danger and freedom was jeopardized."

A mere fraction of the total cost in money of conducting the Second World War, if expended for adequate national defense, would have PREVENTED that conflict.

THE LESSON in this experience which the American people must recognize, and which Gen. Eisenhower earnestly and urgently emphasizes, is that adequate national defense is THE ONLY MEANS WE HAVE OF KEEPING OUT OF WAR.

And yet we are again indulging the old folly of NATIONAL WEAKNESS.

We are, in fact, already far advanced along the path of military unpreparedness which caused us to be involved in two terrible wars and now constitutes an invitation to a third and more terrible conflict.

As General Eisenhower has warned on many occasions, our armed forces have not merely been demobilized in the brief time since the end of the recent war, but have virtually DISINTEGRATED.

More ominously, we have not even been able to agree upon and effectuate a sound and sufficient NATIONAL POLICY of adequate defense.

The program of universal military training, which all responsible and competent military authorities consider vital to future peace and security, has only now approached the stage of Congressional hearings—and is still a matter of uncertain and confused final disposition.

The program of unification of the armed forces, mandatory for the efficient conduct of modern warfare, is almost interminably languishing in the committee rooms of Congress.

AMERICA IS making all the old mistakes of the era between the first two World Wars, and is inevitably and inexorably getting into the same condition of national weakness which exacted such an APPALLING PENALTY FOR FAILURE on the Normandy beaches and in every other theater of the recent war.

The American people have the highest respect for General Eisenhower.

Why do they not pay more heed to the authoritative counsel he gives concerning the best and probably the only way to KEEP OUT OF WAR?

FLAG DAY

TOMORROW, the 170th anniversary of adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the American nations emblem, is FLAG DAY.

Let us observe it properly by flying Old Glory from all our public buildings, above our streets and at our homes.

Even more properly, let us learn anew the meaning of the flag and thus increase our respect and love for it.

Truly, the flag is historically and inherently significant of our best hopes, of our great and enduring faith in our country and in ourselves, and in our sense of national honor and patriotic duty.

TODAY I saw a dog leading a blind young fellow across the busy intersection of 59th st. and Fifth ave., Manhattan. It was touching to note the care and solicitude with which this remarkable animal handled his task. Every now and then he would nudge up against his master as if to say: "Don't worry; I'm here." Due to the cleverness of the dog and the confidence his master had in him, the pair moved along quite rapidly. No human, no matter how much they loved that young fellow, could be more concerned for his safety and peace of mind than that dog. Yet men styling themselves "scientists" try to tell us the dog is so far below the human in the scale of living things that it is perfectly all right to torture it as a means of experimentation.

HORSES & WOMEN. When Carole Landis switched from a blonde to a brunette she seems to have started something. Am reliably informed the number of blondes who are desirous of becoming brunettes is great. It is claimed to be impossible for a blonde to have an "air of mystery" about her. In feminine circles an "air of mystery" is considered extremely desirable. Hence, the numerous blondes who are becoming beautiful dark-haired sirens, they hope.

BATHING SUITS: "Well, let's hear how YOU are going to look in a bathing suit," writes a Bronx matron who indicates she has been much annoyed by references in this department to plump females and bathing suits. This subscriber is not the only one who has asked me this question. I must give a honest answer and it is: "Not so good." At the moment I have a little excessive weight around the beltline. However, if I cut cereal for breakfast, pie a la mode for dinner and play a little handball I can soon take that off.

BY AIR: Plane travel is, of course, much speedier than 10 years ago, but not as comfortable. I traveled extensively on planes in the middle 30's. I don't recall ever having been grounded for a mechanical defect in a plane. On each of the past three transcontinental air trips I have made, I have been grounded because of a plane breakdown. Is it the way planes are being built? Or are the mechanics at the airports getting careless?

PLEASE NOTE: Remember I told you about a San Francisco choir who claimed to have seen "The Jolson Story" 17 times. He was 16 up on me then. Now he is only 14. I saw this picture twice last night. I like it because of Jolson's voice singing the old songs and it also brings memories of a very lively era in the history of Broadway entertainment. As to who is the best actor or actress of all time, or the best boxer, writer, jockey, or playwright I have my opinions. But they are flexible. You might talk me out of them. But on two things my mind is made up. You can't change it. The best baseball player of all time was Hans Wagner, the best singer of popular songs, Al Jolson.

NOT SO GOOD. Did you catch that dispatch reporting two Los Angeles girls, aged 9 and 13, were arrested for sending extortion notes. In explanation of the crime one youngster said: "We heard the idea on the radio and thought we would try it out." It is daily growing more apparent that radio censorship is a necessity. Too many kids are getting too many wrong ideas over the airwaves.

SHOES—Though women's shoes come in 160 different sizes, a female wearing shoes that fit her is rare. Ill-fitting shoes make women irritable. Husbands who have a firm grip on the management of their households should not permit their wives to wear tight shoes. If your wife has been flying off the handle too quickly and too much, examine her shoes.

CLIMATE: Well, sir, you could have slapped me over with a feather. I was talking to a fellow from California today who was bitterly complaining about the weather. Not the weather in New York, but the weather in California which he described as currently being "terrible." He said there was no doubt whatsoever that in the past 10 years the climate of southern California had changed. "Why it rained last week in Palm Springs. Imagine that, rain in Palm Springs in June," he said bitterly.

BRIEFLY: Among the interesting statistics I have recently noted is that in New York city there are 301,830 dogs and 2,500,000 trees. . . . Note a reference to the modern practice of birth control. That's ridiculous. Birth control has been practiced for nearly 4000 years.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate

NEW YORK, June 13—When President Truman was asked to comment recently on the latest Kansas City vote fraud case, he said he thought it should be carried through to its logical conclusion.

The logical conclusion, of course, would be the defeat and the appropriate disgrace of Harry Truman in 1948.

Whatever his other virtues and achievements, he is the titular chief of the Pendergast machine in Kansas City and morally responsible for its crimes.

His responsibility is not just general as Roosevelt's was in collaborating with this same vicious gang and with the Hague and Kelly machines in Jersey City and Chicago.

Kansas City is Truman's old home town. He served as a county commissioner there in the era of some of the most spectacular thievery and vice in the criminal history of the United States.

He knew, because even the most innocent and credulous citizens knew, that his great friend and patron, old Tom Pendergast, was a thief and grafter.

PENDERGAST ran a wide-open town. He grafted from the gambling joints, he grafted from an insurance conspiracy which robbed the people. He was so greedy that he wouldn't even let his assistant grafters have a reasonable share and Truman knew all this as well as he knows his own name.

All he ever did about it was try to block the investigation and wreak revenge on Maurice Milligan, the U. S. attorney, who finally sent Pendergast to prison.

After he had become President and a lot of the members of the Pendergast underworld had served their prison terms, Truman gave them presidential pardons. They were his old political comrades.

The pardons were personal favors, of course, to the individuals concerned, but they were, on the whole, a gesture of respect and loyalty from a President of the United States to one of the vilest men in our country.

OLD TOM PENDERGAST died and the same President flew to Kansas City to attend his funeral.

Whatever Harry Truman, the old barrel-house politician, might have thought about Pendergast, and we know he respected him, the President of the country made a serious blunder when he went there.

Many of us have had the kindness to put away in the back of our minds the memory of a disgraceful deal by which the funds of the people were loaned on a farm owned by the mother of Harry Truman, the old county commissioner.

But it just won't stay there. He shows great affection and respect for his mother when she is ill and he lies to her bedside, but he permitted her name to be bandied about in this connection.

AS PRESIDENT he sets out to purge a Congressman of his own party in a primary and his own old gang takes this to be an order to steal the nomination.

That is just what happened, so again, as before, we find Truman, still the barrel-house politician though he now sits in the White House, conniving after the fact by permitting the Department of Justice to shrink its investigation.

Probably he ordered the D. O. J. to go easy. We all know that if Tom Clark, Truman's Attorney-General, had given the word, the FBI could have uncovered that crime and brought in evidence to convict.

But J. Edgar Hoover claims that Clark restricted the FBI and thus made it necessary for the Kansas City Star's reporters to do the job as the Star men did in the previous frauds when Truman's only action was obstruction.

TRUMAN JUST can't change. He is a good American up to a certain point and in most respects, but if you insist that your President break off past associations you have to give up on Truman.

It is a strange defect in a man who otherwise practices the homely virtues and, as soon as he could get around to doing it, stomped on Stalin's toes and jabbed him in the eye with the red end of his cigar.

There is no fool in the United States fool enough to believe that Truman could not find out right now the names of the yeggs who blew the courthouse vault and stole the evidence proving that his old friends had stolen the primary and where they could be picked up.

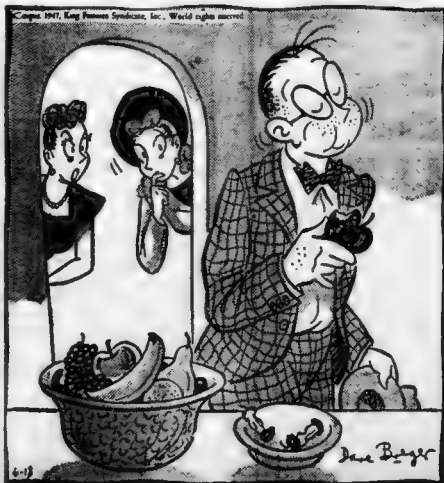

But Harry is one of the boys and that's a fact. We have to take him as he is—or leave him at the next stop.

Boston After Dark

HOLLYWOOD, June 12.—Dick Haymes goes to Universal-International for two pictures. That's the very first time I knew that Dick and 10th had parted company. Apparently it was all perfectly friendly, the parting, I mean, with Dick deciding to sing his songs by the free lance method. Haymes' first is "Up in Central Park," in which he will be teamed with Deanna Durbin. This is the Mike Todd play and is the first Broadway show ever bought for her. William Seiter is the director and Harold Tuberg the producer. One thing more about the Haymes deal, I hear through the grapevine that 20th allowed him to go to Universal-International and make his own deal, which, if you ask me, is the way relations should be between a star and a company after they part company.

Deanna Durbin

GRETA GARBO is really serious about returning to the screen, but she wants to make her return in France. She has a commitment with George Cukor to direct her in a picture which a French company will produce.

At first she was interested in starring in "Duchesse La Naigis," a French play in which the actress who made a hit in "The Eagle Has Two Heads" in Paris, was appearing. But now this idea is dead and again Garbo is looking for a story. As soon as she finds one she and George will take off for Paris.

LATE TODAY Jack Warner gave Ann Sheridan permission to co-star with Gary Cooper in "Good Sam," for Leo McCarey. Steve Hannagan, who represented Ann, agreed to give Warner Bros. an extra picture on her contract if Jack would give Ann permission to do this picture. I am very glad that this is all settled, because Ann was a n d e the part so much. Everybody's happy and so am I to tell this story.

I SAT NEXT to Jack Cummings and his attractive blonde bride at Louis B. Mayer's dinner a few nights ago, and he told me he is getting "The Story of Monty Stratton" ready for the screen.

Monty, who hailed from Greenville, Tex., and was one of the great all-time pitchers when star of the Chicago White Sox, lost his leg at the height of his success. But that didn't down him. He's now playing ball in Mexico. When Jack told me he wanted Van Johnson for the role of Monty, I remembered how much Ronald Reagan wanted to play that part.

PRETTY SWELL on the part of Mike Curtiz to give Busby Berkeley the best chance he's had in three years. Buz, completely straightened out now, is not only directing the dance sequences in "Romance in High Heels," but Mike is keeping him on as a full-fledged director in some of his independent movies.

All right, so Berkeley in the past has been a bad boy. But everybody deserves a helping hand—particularly when he has turned over a new leaf and wants to do the right thing.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Far be it from me to say that 6-year-old Maureen Reagan (daughter of Jane Wyman and Ronnie Reagan) has the right idea when she wrote "I love you" to every boy in her class—but with those tactics how can she lose romantically?

When Jane and Ronnie appeared on my radio show recently, Marvin Miller told me, "My son gets love letters from your daughter."

"And so does every other boy in the class," laughed Jane. "But she really talks more about your Tony than any of the others. In fact, she and another little girl had a fight over him."

Kindergarten love, like true love, apparently doesn't run smoothly.

Several familiar faces from the Warner Bros. lot are on the "High Wall" set, Robert Taylor's picture. The director, Curt Bernhardt, and Producer Robert Lord were both formerly at the Burbank studio.

Besides Bob, Herbert Marshall is in the cast, as a murderer. If you please, he does the "Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde" part, and you know how suave Bart can be as the so charming wicked gentleman.

I can't believe rumors that Bart and Boots Mallory won't marry. If you please, they played because every night they have dinner together. It doesn't look to me as if their romance is getting cold.

I LOVE Jack Benny and there is nobody like him. But I must say young Jack Paar is doing a bang up job on Jack's summer replacement show. The boy is clever, funny, and his material is fresh.

All of which may have recalled to R. K. O.'s attention that they have him under contract. For six months Paar has been on salary at the Gower st. studio but he has yet to get his face and humor before a camera. I have a hunch, however, it won't be long now. They've sent him three scripts to read.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: The friends of George Stone will be glad to know it was just indignation and not a heart attack that affected him at the baseball game. He is getting ready to go into a picture and was okay yesterday.

The Fabian theaters have upped their offer for the United Artists company to $12,000,000, but Mary Pickford is holding out for $15,000,000. Looks to me as if my friend Mary will get that amount if she wants to sell.

Mike Romanoff left Wednesday for a complete physical check-up at Johns Hopkins Hospital. He'll be gone two weeks. The Zsa-Zsa Hilton-George Sanders romance, 'tis said has hit a snag.

John Miles and Ray Hendricks (Laraine Day's ex), despite their broken engagement, at a table for two at the Tallyho.

I like Tom Lewis so much I upped him to president of Young and Rubicam. Actually, he is a vice president, and president of the Hollywood Advertising Club.

The Tony Martin-Marilyn Maxwell romance is continuing. Dagmar Gadowsky, daughter of the late famed Leopold Gadowsky, is in town. At one time Dagmar played one of Rudolph Valentino's leading ladies, but then she disappeared from the scene. She's now turned author and will try to sell some of her stories here.

William Schorr, who directed "Bloomer Girl" in New York, and Madeline Elmore, the radio actress, who eloped to Las Vegas two months ago, have had their marriage quietly annulled.

Louis B. Mayer hosted a dinner for Dr. Jessie Marmorston (Mrs. Larry Weingarten) and Clarence Brown. Both Clarence and Dr. Jessie go to Honolulu on a holiday.

Mrs. Rita Warner, who was once married to H. B. Warner, the actor, telephoned to say she had known Jeanne Eagels well, having been on the stage with her, and would love to talk with Casey Robinson about Jeanne's life story.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

THE CAPE'S ONETIME casino of dance, dining and dice, the Casa Madrid, will open its doors a week from tonight to the public again. . . . The Casa is going to be lacking its former chief allure this year, because gambling on a lavish scale with music and dancing being used merely as a blind is taboo everywhere in the Commonwealth. . . . A less liberal policy of operation is followed these days by the various Cape Cod authorities, many of whom were alumni of the lush run-running era. . . . The State Police which staged the famous raid on the old Casa and caught a variety of dignitaries just as they were trying to make some fours and tens the hard way is an even more baneful influence on open gambling now than then. . . . The new Casa Madrid nevertheless will not be wanting in appeal to the public.

SITUATED near Hyannis in West Yarmouth, the Casa is a natural beauty spot. . . . The pine trees make a beautiful grove, and the nearby beach reflects the summer moonlight so beautifully that the over-all appeal is something right out of a Hollywood set-designer's imagination.

THE ARCHITECTURE and decorations of the Casa have been changed radically, and the place glistens with bright new fixtures and paint. . . . It seats more than 300. Food for epicures and music in the new non-swinging manner now so fashionable and popular will be the spot's thoroughly legitimate chief attractions. . . . A comparatively early opening (June 20th) is not frightening Mr. Particelli. . . . Already, the Cape is a-swarm with people on week-ends, and unless a nor'easter now threatening Massachusetts for the umpteenth time since winter was supposed to have departed descends on the state as predicted, this week-end will see more than half of the summer population making pre-season visits, realtors say.

• A TYPOGRAPHICAL error which had us writing that Joe Lewis was "under thirty" has produced so many letters of sympathy from thoughtful readers that we feel an explanation is demanded. . . . The sentence which was misprinted because of some illegible handwriting in corrections committed by the worst worst hand-writer . . . the oversigned, should have read: "Mr. Lewis's humor is not recommended for children. The children in fact should not be—well, let us say not under 30. . . . That came out in the type." E. Lewis is young—say under 30. . . . We were trying to convey our conclusion that the great Joe E. (now current for two final nights at the La Guardia) was so ultra-sophisticated in his comedy that youngsters in their teens and twenties would be shocked, and probably red-faced and uncomfortable in mixed company. . . . From what we have been hearing of the effect of Mr. Lewis on Boston, we might have raised that age-limit a generation or two. . . . But there is only one Joe E. Lewis and with only one comedian able to use the stuff he gets away with, and for this he can thank the thick skin of the face he has been carrying around for the thirty years or more since he was twenty. . . . And his extreme talent!

WATCH FOR TRADES on both Boston ball teams, and the Phillies are a team the Braves trade with, and St. Louis Browns the one on the other end of a deal with the Red Sox, it is possible that you read about the deal in this space first. . . . If the trades blow up, please do the same. . . . Dave Ferriss passed his no-game holiday at the famous Longwood Tennis and Cricket Club. We should like to tell him that he is the greatest man in the world in the opinion of one Peter Holland, age 12, and that we appreciate the Ferriss kindness in dealing with his young idolators so greatly, that we do not resent being deposed by the one mentioned above. . . . Dave thought he would get a chance to pitch the Sox' first game under lights at Fenway tonight.

NEW YORK, June 13—A famous Broadway restaurant partnership is close to calling it quits because both boys are weary of the constant bickering. . . . Ed Luckenbach is lying in the Coast to try to interest Laraine Day and Leo Durocher in a show he thinks would be perfect for them. . . . Sporting circles hear Saratoga will get the "green light" for gambling any moment now. . . . David Cowles, the gourmet, is in Presbyterian Hospital for a minor operation. . . . The literati are buzzing over a report that the author of a current best seller (a lady) slugged a Chicago newspaperman in the Pump Room. She's supposed to have hauled off when, after a lengthy interview, the gazette gall sneered, "I thought you said you didn't want any publicity." . . . Bandleader Dick Stable and Trudy Uwin of the Bob Hope show are sniffing orange blossoms. . . . A famous South-of-the-Border figure has his supporters going berserk. Wants to divorce his wife and marry the 17-year-old daughter of one of his country's wealthiest citizens—and it's not that kind of a country. . . . Abbott and Costello weren't making jokes when they lived, or relations with their agent, Eddie Sherman. They even tossed him out of his offices in the Lou Costello building. . . . Warner are trying to lure Garbo back to the screen with a role opposite Errol Flynn. . . . Candy Montgomery, the model, became Mrs. Joe Johnson last week. He's one of the features of "Three To Make Ready." . . . Several major league magnates have private eyes checking on baseball stars who are studying to play for the Alcoholic Anonymous team.

WASHINGTON, June 13—I was walking down a corridor of the Capitol with a short, stout man and we got talking about who has the toughest job in Congress—the minority leader or the Speaker of the House.

The short, stout man proceeded to air his views on the subject in very positive fashion, employing a lot of personal pronouns.

"Pardon me, sir," I interrupted, "but you appear to speak as one having authority and not as the scribes. That?" I added, "is a little thing I picked up from Matthew vii, 29."

"Half the time," replied the short, stout man, rather testily, "I cannot make head or tail of what you are saying. You know perfectly well I speak with authority. I have been both."

"Then," I gasped, "you must be the Hon. Joseph William Martin, Jr., Speaker of the House of Representatives?"

"No," said the short, stout man, "I am Paul Revere."

The short, stout man turned out to be equivocating, however. He was really Speaker Martin.

HE SAID the minority leader has by far the toughest job—especially when his party is out of power. I said I did not wish to split hairs but wouldn't the fact that a man was leader of the minority mean that his party was out of power.

"I mean when it is out of power in both the legislative and administrative branches," he replied. "That's the way we were last year. This year we are sort of half and half—but we expect to grab the whole thing next year."

"With his party out of power the minority leader is shooting in the dark half the time. If his party is in power he knows in advance what is coming up and can get set. But the other way he doesn't know what he will get hit with."

"When I was minority leader last year the shorts were coming from all sides. The Democrats had us running in circles trying to catch up with what was going on."

"On the other hand," continued the mighty man from Massachusetts, "being Speaker today is really tough. I am at my desk from 8 o'clock in the morning until after 7 at night and I never seem to come out even."

I SAID IT MUST be very tough to be the Speaker because he is the only member of Congress not permitted to do any speaking. Of course, he can get off a few dramatic lines now and again, like "The time of the gentlemanman from California has expired," but he is forbidden to join the debates.

"That is only a small part of the job," says the Hon. Joe. "It would be a sneeze if all I had to do was stand up there and bang a gavel."

"I often wondered about that," I said. "You just don't sit there and say: 'The chair recognizes So-and-so?' By the way, why do you always say you recognize them? Are you afraid they might think you mistook them for somebody else?"

"Skip it!" snapped the Hon. Joe. "We have 19 standing committees in the House, cut down from 46 under the reorganization bill. But the 19 standing committees are split up into about 140 subcommittees—and the Speaker has to keep abreast of everything they are doing.

"He has to know the day-by-day status of all impending legislation, and, believe me, it changes rapidly these days. He has to be prepared every minute to sit in a committee chairman and advise."

"Then," I said, "you would rather be minority leader?" "Go home!" said the Hon. Joe. Incidentally, Speaker Martin says it looks as if the House will be able to adjourn July 28. I asked if everything was proceeding on schedule.

"Well," he replied, "we're really rolling now. You see, it took our members a little longer with their legislation because they had to write their own bills—not to accept them, ready made, by some brain-truster. . . . The White House, as used to be the case. . . . Are the bills the boys are writing themselves up to standard?" I asked. "Or do they lack the fine, imaginative touch of the great geniuses?"

"The language may not be as flowery," responded the Hon. Joe, "but it makes a lot more sense."

Soviet Shuns Treaty In Fight to Win Austria

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND

Dean of American Foreign Correspondents

Written Expressly for the Hearst Newspapers

GENEVA, June 13—Soviet Russia will not sign a peace treaty for Austria with the present Austrian government as that government is now composed.

Vienna and the Western powers can take that or leave it.

Well-informed sources in Geneva and Zurich assert that is the attitude in the Kremlin and that Vienna has not been left in doubt as to that position.

This line of action is regarded as a logical follow up to Soviet Russia's Communist coup in Hungary.

The wave of arrests in Bulgaria, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, the increasing number of strikes in France, and ominous preparations reported in Italy are considered prima facie evidence that a Communist offensive all along the line has been ordered by Moscow.

These developments mark a widening and deploying of the forces in the open and underground war between the Soviet "Stalin doctrine" and America's "Truman doctrine."

In its narrower limits of operation it is a war for the soul of Europe.

In its widest it is the beginning of a great war for the soul of the world—Communism and socialism or democracy.

The present bloodless battles of statesmanship, diplomacy and veiled forces through terrorism, warnings, threats and protests, are raging in several areas.

The main ones are Germany and Austria, France and Italy, Greece and Turkey, and China.

There is little or no expectation of peace being established with either Austria or Germany at the November conference of the Big Four foreign ministers in London.

Sources of information in Geneva and Zurich, known to have contact with authoritative Soviet circles, gloomily predict no peace in November.

Soviet Russia will put off as long as possible that moment when armaments take the place of diplomacy as a "continuation of national policy by other means."

Austria, next to Germany, is the most important key to Soviet Russia on the present line of division between the East and West.

In Soviet possession and linked with Czechoslovakia to the north and Yugoslavia to the south, it bars the way for the Western powers to eastern and southeastern Europe.

Reports have reached me from trustworthy non-Communist sources deep in the interior of Soviet Russia warning against being misled by rumors and reports that internal difficulties will bring about a change in the Kremlin's foreign policy.

The Soviet government has been having difficulties, in fact great difficulties, and it is said that these have been particularly grave in the Ukraine.

The trouble in the Ukraine, it is alleged, has been overcome and that in other areas will be overcome, too.

Russia is a primitive country and its people can and do endure and put up with hardships and conditions no western people could or would tolerate.

Baby Must Be De-Atomized

CLEVELAND, June 13 (INS)—Six-months-old Monica McPheer was flown in great haste from Cleveland to her home in Los Angeles today to be of all things—deatomized.

Monica, daughter of Robert McPheer, captain of police at the Eagle-Lion studios in Hollywood, about a month ago was bombarded with a heavy dosage of radium rays to heal a growth on her spine.

While her doctor was preparing to administer a counteractive ray to neutralize the deadly radium, the baby's mother, Mary, took her for a three-weeks' visit at the home of relatives in Akron.

Yesterday, Mrs. McPheer received a call from her husband to the effect that she take the baby to a doctor or come home immediately.

Mrs. McPheer went to an Akron pediatrician and was advised to return home by the fastest means.

Split Tax Bill Goes to Board For More Study

In the climax to a week of well-attended hearings, a special recess commission will study the proposed community property law as soon as the Legislature adjourns, and report its findings no later than Dec. 1.

This was the unanimous recommendation of the joint legislative committee on legal affairs, filed by Rep. Oscar Cahoon of Harwich, committee secretary.

The recommendation provides that the legal affairs committee be authorized to sit during the recess of the general court to study the proposed law. The committee would be provided headquarters at the State House, would hold hearings, be empowered to call witnesses to testify under oath, and would employ a staff of clerical, legal and expert assistants.

The committee would also be empowered to travel within and outside the State to complete the study, which it was estimated would cost about $50,000.

Rep. Louis Lobel of Brighton, chairman of the House committee on legal affairs, expressed confidence the Legislature would authorize the committee's expenses for the study.

"If money can be saved the people of Massachusetts under this bill," he said, "I am certain the Legislature will grant the committee on legal affairs the opportunity to make a thorough study of the entire proposal."

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS

BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS—On Friday, June 20, 1947, about 9:30 A. Overell Girl's Ace Revealed

By VINCENT X. FLAHERTY

Special to the Boston American
SANTA ANA, Cal., June
13—Otto A. Jacobs, described hereabouts as the best criminal attorney in Orange County, scene of the Overell yacht blast trial, is also described as a good card player.

And he is playing his cards carefully here.

Jacobs, 51, is defending Beulah Louise Overell, whom the State charges with the death of her parents, along with her sweetheart,
George Gollum, 21.

Jacobs is convinced he has an ace in the hole. The Overell girl was 17 at the time of her parents' death. She is therefore not subject to the death penalty.

Jacobs had battled for a separate trial from the outset, contending that Gollum, if found guilty, is subject to the death penalty.

Hence, he contends, it is unfair to try his client jointly with Gollum.

"Jurors are being excused for cause because they have conscientious scruples against the death penalty," he told me.

"I would like to retain some of them for jury duty, but can't because Gollum is subject to the death penalty."

Jacobs insists the excusing of such jurors violates Miss Overell's constitutional rights by reason of the fact they could be qualified to try her while unqualified to try Gollum.

So, in the event Miss Overell is convicted, Jacobs plans to appeal to a higher court.

He will carry the issue all the way to the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary, for he is convinced he has a point of law that is without precedent.

Change Breakfast Menu

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

DESSERT AT BREAKFAST TIME? Well, why not? As long as you have fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter in your breakfast, what does the order matter?

You can vary the different parts of the basic breakfast from day to day, but for a bit of variety, change the order of the menu.

When nose wriggling aromas wait in from the kitchen, your family will be ready and waiting for their first meal of the day. Half the thrill of Sunday morning lies in leisurely breakfasting. A bowl of ready-to-eat cereal, a softly foaming pitcher of fresh, sweet milk, parsley scrambled eggs, smooth-spreading, golden butter—all go well with a dessert of golden fresh pineapple nuggets topped with a fragrant strawberry, and a plateful of hot cereal muffins.

OATMEAL MUFFINS

1/2 cup quick-cooking rolled oats
1 cup milk
2 tsp. melted fat
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
2 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt

Combine rolled oats, milk and fat; let stand 10 minutes. Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Add to first mixture, mix quickly but thoroughly. Fill greased muffin pans, 2 1/2 inches in diameter, 2-3 full. Bake in hot oven (425 deg. to 450 deg. F.) 25 minutes. Makes 9 muffins.

MOLASSES BRAN MUFFINS

2 cups all-bran cereal
1/4 cup molasses 1 egg
1 1/4 cups milk 1 tsp. soda
1 cup flour
1/2 tsp. salt

Add cereal to molasses and milk and allow to soak for 15 minutes. Beat egg and add to first mixture. Sift flour, salt and soda together and combine with cereal mixture. Fill greased muffin pans 2-3 full and bake in moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 20 minutes. Makes 1 dozen muffins.

CORNMEAL MUFFINS

1 cup flour
1 cup cornmeal
3 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
3 tbsp. sugar (may be omitted if desired)
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup milk
3 tbsp. shortening, melted

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine egg, milk and shortening and add to flour-cereal mixture, stirring only until mixed. Use tablespoon to dip batter into greased muffin pans and fill them 2-3 full. Bake in hot oven (425 deg. F.) for 20 to 30 minutes, according to size of muffins. Makes one dozen medium-sized muffins.

PARSLEY SCRAMBLED EGGS

1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
1/4 cup milk or light cream
1 tsp. butter or margarine
1/2 cup chopped parsley

Beat eggs until whites and yolks are well mixed; add salt and pepper, and stir in milk. Melt butter in frying pan or saucepan; add egg mixture and cook over low heat or boiling water, stirring the cooked portion from the bottom and sides of pan, thus forming soft, creamy flakes. As it begins to cook, add chopped parsley. Serve at once; if left in pan, egg continues to cook. For a custard type of scrambled eggs, stir mixture constantly until thick but not dry and firm. Serve with broiled bacon, if desired. To increase recipe, use one tablespoon milk and one teaspoon butter or margarine for each egg. This recipe makes enough for four servings.

Fragrance That's Cooling

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

THE DAYS ARE HERE when most of us want to take the simmer out of summer ... or do you like the humid heat ... days when the wind is as acceptable as a day off. From time unaccountable ... the winds have been something we could only feel and hear.

But no hurdle is too great for an exponent of femininity to overcome ... and now she comes up with a liquid mixture which ... facetiously enough ... is supposed to be bottled winds to appeal to the sense of smell and sight, too. Yes, you guessed it ... it's cologne ... but a prestige-name cooling off perfumed water that's both refreshing and inviting.

Turning to the North, to the South, to the East and to the West ... America's "First Lady of Fashion" ... so acclaimed for years ... who has added beauty items to her program of glamorizing the American woman ... has whisked from the very air, it seems, the ingredients of this charm potion. It is not anything you'll toss to the four winds ... but a cooling-off personality poser that will bring the breath of four winds to you.

Only recently introduced ... it has already become a favorite with smart women everywhere. Add a perfectionist's touch of glamor to your lingerie and hankies while they're being laundered by adding a small amount of this cologne to the final rinsing water. This permits the fresh, exhilarating fragrance of this liquid exclusive to cling ever so subtly to "personals" for prevailing summertime daintiness.

FRAGRANCE LASTS FOR DAYS

Likewise ... add a small measure of its fragrance in the final rinse of your shampoo and surround your hair with a halo of delicate fragrance that will last for days.

In addition to all-over refreshment afforded by this cooling cologne after bathing ... gain extra cooling effect by frequently patting it on throughout the day ... on wrists, in the crooks of the elbows, at the nape of the neck. Career girls will find this latter a wonderful way to take the wilt out of the working day!

With her customary respect for the utmost femininity and charm in an individual ... the creator of this exquisite cologne has unfolded in its encompassing use an appeal not only to two but to four senses. Use it as suggested and hear the compliments ... feel the freshness ... sniff the fragrance ... and see the charm!

And if you are going to hold me to carrying the twist a bit further ... I. e., as for the sense of taste ... then you'll find you are an exponent of good taste in using it since good taste is an inherent quality of all the charming cosmetics advanced and endorsed by this fashionable lady of fashion and beauty creation.

In the modern glass-cylinder flacon ... six

TO TAKE the simmer out of summer and to enjoy the refreshing delight of enhanced femininity ... actually to look as cool, collected and come-hither as the model ... accept the fresh, exhilarating fragrance of a wind-swept cologne contrived by a noted fashion and beauty authority.

ounces of it sell for $2 ... with the atomizer top, at $3.

For the name of this prestige-name cologne, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 4000, daily except Sunday, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Her Boy Friend Objects

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: Up until two weeks ago, I was going steady with a fellow whom I love very much. There were two things that I did, however, to which he objected. These were to go to dances, and, also, to go out with another fellow. But I only went out with him once, and he was a Marine home on furlough. I agreed not to go out with anybody else, but I couldn't see not going to dances.

So he said that he saw no reason for us to go steady any more. I said all right and we parted friends, but now I find that I miss him very much and love him more than I ever did. Should I call this fellow up and ask him to forgive me? "K.M.J."

Dear "K. M. J.":

I don't see any reason for your calling up this young man and asking him to forgive you. It seems to me he was being very narrow-minded in objecting to your going out once with a boy who was home on furlough, and I cannot see any objection, either, to your going to an occasional dance without him, if the dance is held under proper circumstances and you were not just going to some dance hall and dancing with strange men you happened to meet there.

That First Evening Gown

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

SUGAR AND SPICE and everything nice is what every young girl dreams of for her first evening gown.

Starting with the idea that the ideal summer evening gown for the teen-age girl is a sweet, filmy dress, demure as to neckline and sleeves, but wide-flaring and romantic in the sweep of its skirt, they have added spice in the way of something sophisticated. One of the loveliest of their devices is the use of black lace on a sheer white gown.

The gown sketched today, designed by Jane Derby, shows what can be done with this idea. Made of white organza, the dress buttons primly up to a little round collar, and has little flaring sleeves that drop from the shoulder line. Applied on the skirt front is a tiny apron of black lace. Black velvet ribbon with double bows makes the narrow belt.

OATMEAL MUFFINS

SHE MAKES MANY TRIPS WITH US, MISS DORIAN. SHE'S A BUG ON MARIONETTES. MAKES REALLY BEAUTIFUL ONES. DEVOTES HER TIME AND MONEY TO A GROUP IN THE STATES CALLED "THE SOCIETY FOR REVIVING THE PUPPET THEATRE."

THEN HER NICKNAME, LADY LILLIPUT, IS FITTING...

HER REAL NAME, STILL MORE APPROPRIATELY, IS LILLIAM PUTNEY.

SHE'S COMING OVER...

I HOPE YOU'LL FORGIVE THE INTRUSION, MY DEAR... BUT I DO SO WANT TO MEET YOU! I'VE ADMIRED YOU EVER SINCE WE EMBARKED! YOU'RE SO LOVELY! SO DAINTY! SO LIKE... YES! A DRESDEN DOLL!

WHY! HOW NICE! GEE, I, I JUST DON'T KNOW WHAT TO SAY!

Smart Set Weds on Parents' Anniversary

By BETTY ALDEN

A BRIDE whose wedding date will have double significance is Barbara Louise Fellows Spangler, who was married to Dr. Arthur Stephenson Spangler on the 28th wedding anniversary of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Fellows.

The 4 o'clock ceremony on Tuesday took place in a story-book setting—the Fellows' home, which is an historical landmark on Puritan rd., Swampscott. A long-time friend of the bride's family, the Rev. Frank Casey, Congregational minister of Bradford, performed the ceremony. The bride was beautifully gowned in powder blue silk crepe with a coronet of white bouvardia. Her matron-of-honor, Mrs. Paul Sweezy of Wilton, N. H., former roommate of the bride at Kendall Hall School in Peterboro, N. H., wore yellow silk with brown orchids.

The bride's mother was gowned in platinum gray silk and wore contrasting purple orchids.

Keith Carnegie, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man for Dr. Spangler.

Following their honeymoon the young couple will reside in Boston. Dr. Spangler is a graduate of the Harvard Medical School and is associated with Dr. Walter Lever, noted Boston specialist.

Mr. Fellows, the bride's father, is general manager of WEEI and director of operations in New England for the Columbia Broadcasting System. He has just been elect president of the Boston Ad Club and another recent was his election to the chairmanship of the First District of the National Association of Broadcasters.

SHERMAN WHIPPLE, 3D, is bringing his bride home to Plymouth where they will make their home when their honeymoon at Skytop in the Pocono mountains is over.

Their wedding last Tuesday in Nashville, Tenn., was an outstanding social event and many Bostonians made the trip for the ceremony.

The bride, who is the former Mettie Rice Barton, is a real Southern belle but she has many friends here as she attended Sarah Lawrence College.

The Whipple family is one of the most famous around Plymouth, and a round of parties is already being planned to fete the newlyweds on their return.

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of the Vegetable Gardening
Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural SchoolQ—What vegetables should we plant for fall storage?A—The most practical crops to grow for storage are carrots, luknips, celery and squash. To keep any of these crops you must have a room where temperature and humidity can be controlled.Q—Is 5-8-7 garden fertilizer good for asparagus beds?A—Yes. An application of fertilizer now or soon after you stop cutting will do the bed a lot of good.Q—Is it necessary to support World Record peas?A—No. This is a dwarf variety and needs no support.Q—How often should the lawn be mowed?A—This depends on weather conditions and how fast it grows.
Keep it cut so that it averages 2 inches most of the time.Q—Last year our broccoli did not head. What was the trouble?A—Broccoli is not an easy crop to grow. Only the best strains should be planted, and then you must hope for good weather. Too much heat or uneven growing conditions will cause poor heads to form or delay maturity.Q—This year I planted several rows of Salsify. How and when should it be used?A—Salsify produces a root very similar to parsnip, and when grown well are good. It is used as a late fall crop. Slice, boil and dress with butter. Very popular in some countries, and on private estates here.

HE GETS HEAD START BUT LAGS IN POKEY

42 The customer was new around there but he was a genial type and he said if the bartender would kindly cash a check for $200 or so he would pick a stool and sit right there to do his drinking in East Boston, the bartender told police.

But the check was for $205.07 and there wasn't that much in the till, the bartender said, so he advanced the customer $20 for the moment. It was not until the customer had gulped $10 worth of the finest—and in an unbecomingly hasty—the bartender became suspicious. He asked for another

It was made out to two persons. He examined the customer, noted he had only one head and pointed out the discrepancy. "That's funny," said the customer, "I had two when I came in and I have been drinking doubles, haven't I?"

Police helped him off the stool and into the pokey. He was scheduled to explain his logic in East Boston court later.

Laundry Mark Traps Man in N. Y. Attack

NEW YORK, June 13 (AP)—Arrested through a police check of a laundry mark on a cleaning rag, Robert Smith, 44, porter and handyman, was held on charges of assault and robbery today in the beating Wednesday of Mrs. Madge Tucker Miller, radio script writer, in her apartment.

Mrs. Miller was knocked unconscious by a man who posed as a window cleaner to enter her apartment. A three-pound ornamental metal dog was used as a bludgeon. Police said Smith admitted the attack.

NEW AMA HEAD
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 13 (INS)—Dr. Roscoe L. Sensohn, of South Bend, Ind., was elected president of the American Medical Ass'n. He will take office in 1948.

IT IS UNFORTUNATE that with all the other troubles we face, Mr. Truman is constantly running for President. This is unnecessary, for actually the White House incumbent, Dewey of New York, the other leader for the Republican nomination, Gov. Dewey is in the enviable position that he need not take a public stand on public questions. He may express his views privately in such quarters as he may choose, but he need not make speeches on all subjects as they arise.

SO MR. TRUMAN can have little to say about Dewey, but grows irritated at the very thought of Taft, whose scholarship and incisive logic knock over the sophistries of left-over New Dealism which reappear in Mr. Truman's prepared public statements, although often enough Truman speaks just the opposite when, in moral indignation, he is wholly on his own. Harry Truman's instincts are fine; his studied efforts betray the amateur.

For instance, the recent exchange between Truman and Taft on the subject of economics betrayed Truman, for he used as his base for discussion Henry Wallace's "Boom or Bust" theories which, in turn, are premised on Keynes's "Managed Economy" theories which, in turn, are a social democratic deviation from Marxism.

Actually, Harry Truman believes in none of that, but not having a working familiarity with economic theory, he fell into the Wallace trap. He would not have done that were he not so fearful that Wallace might wreck his re-election prospects; therefore, he seizes upon Wallace's slogans and makes them his own.

TAFT'S REPLY was a measured, scholarly exposition of the fallacy of advocating low prices while enforcing high prices by administrative measures. For instance, the current increase in the price of meat is largely due to excessive exports of meat to Europe. Perhaps if we were told the precise truth about that we might all generously pull in our belt and support the President's policy of aiding the hungry and the victims of Communism. It is even possible that Harry Truman's policy on this subject is altogether right.

But he does not describe that policy in precise terms; instead, he attacks Taft for Taft's effort to describe it in precise terms. The attack therefore fell on deaf ears and only aroused the interest in Truman's selection of Taft as the Republican candidate in 1948. Instead of arousing a debate on economic policy, it stimulated interest in political motivation.

I MAY BE PERMITTED the vanity of having called attention to the importance of Henry Wallace when both the Republicans and Democrats were ridiculing old Wank. It is now beginning to dawn on the practical politicians that Wallace's trip to England was a stage setting for his return to leadership in the Democratic party.

He has been reorganizing the leftist elements in the New Deal amalgam who had no place to go when Harry Truman separated himself from them. So Wallace stepped into this vacuum and Truman must face Wallace every day.

Attacking Taft does not solve Truman's problems. For he faces not only Taft but also Wallace. And also the possibility of Dewey. The smartest route for Truman to take would be to place himself above 1948, to pursue his wholesome instincts, his decent conscience, and let the results come as they may. He might even be re-elected by the dignity of such a course.

He has been reorganizing the leftist elements in the New Deal amalgam who had no place to go when Harry Truman separated himself from them. So Wallace stepped into this vacuum and Truman must face Wallace every day.

3 Bank Alarms Keep Cops on Fly

It was enough to set a man's hair on end.

Patrolman John Tanner of the Somerville police department was sitting at the signal desk when automatic alarms came in from three banks. All cars were ordered to the rescue. Sirens screamed and police made ready their heavy artillery. Inspectors poured out of headquarters to the nearest bank, the Somerville Co-operative, guns drawn.

The Somerset Savings Bank, Custer sq., and the Somerville National in Bow st. No bank bands were in sight.

The police went back to headquarters and found a short circuit in the alarm system.

'Miracle on 34th Street'

Grand Buy for Met Fans

"Miracle on 34th Street," the new 20th Century-Fox picture now turning thoroughly satisfied customers out of the Met these June days and nights, is one of those rarely encountered sheer delights that give a film-reporter's typewriting pause.

The reflective pause, alas, mines no new, fresh words to approximately tag this genuinely joyous experience in picture-going.

We didn't either believe the ardently enthusiastic advance word on "Miracle." We had to see it to believe its beguiling charm and buoyant humor.

Briefly, it is concerned with a nice, old gentleman who calls himself Kris Kringle, is hired by Macy's as their top department Santa and completely revolutionizes department-store policy when he suggests shopping at rival stores when price and quality better Macy's. The idea proves to be a beneficent boomerang with grateful women shoppers snowing in the place with congratulatory letters and sealing them with a pact of endless loyalty to Macy's. Mr. Macy does a quick double take, then gives a blanket order that the Kris Kringle shopping philosophy is now Macy's policy.

around the calendar. He next has Mr. Gimbel doing it.

George Seaton, who wrote the swell script as well as directed, has gotten some nice satiric stuff into his copy. His direction is of the same high caliber, and his cast, headed by Edmund Gwenn, Maureen O'Hara, John Payne and Gene Lockhart, perform so expertly as to make you forget for minutes at a time that this is make-believe.

Gwenn's Kris Kringle is the screen's old darling of the year, his mellow charm and geniality quite overshadowing even the beautiful Miss O'Hara, who with Payne collaborates in the romance department. Natalie Wood, a small girl refreshingly free from moppet cuteness, plays a small girl trained in the there-is-no-Santa school most persuasively. For savoring the Christmas spirit in June, take in "Miracle on 34th Street."

Abbott, Costello At Their Best

Abbott and Costello, tardily demobilized after a cinematic army hitch in 1941 via Universal's "Buck Privates," are presently sharing their civilian capers with RKO Boston audiences.

In "Buck Privates Back Home," the little round man and his tall, lean heckler are at their familiar best. It is a pleasure to put this in writing, because these erstwhile favorites of this department have been off the comical beam in too many pictures of late.

As a backdrop for their frantic antics, John Grant, Frederic I. Rinaldo and Robert Lees have concocted a rather amusing yarn about their efforts to smuggle a little French orphan into this country.

The film is as nutty as the fruitcake of platitude, chockful of the gags, situations and chases that are synonymous with the Abbott and Costello translation of slapstick comedy.

Costello taking off in a midget racing-car with the police in hot pursuit and Costello dangling from a clothesline strung between two skyscrapers provide typically hilarious incidents. Charles Barton's punchy direction proves him a master at this humble brand of comedy.

Ably assisting the comics are Nat Pendleton, as their top-sergeant; Tom Brown and Joan Fulton, who supply the moonlight-and-roses angle; Donald McBride, as a police captain, and Little Beverly Simmons, as the French child. E. E. D.

Adm. Byrd's 'Discovery' Rare Screen Treat

With Santa Claus tenning a neighboring screen and Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's "Discovery" recreating the lobeberg-jammed South Pole on the new Center Theater screen, it is a weather escapist's field-day presently in the town.

Based on the explorer's two books, "Alone" and "Discovery," and concerned with the 1933 return expedition he and his men made to Little America, the film is an astounding record of valor and vicissitudes told in the simplest of terms.

It was on this expedition that Byrd, in the interests of gathering scientific data on weather, went solo underground for five months, forbidding his men to make contact with him by radio or to seek him during the time as the deadline neared, they became concerned when their radio connection revealed his voice to be noticeably weak. A rescue party promptly went after him to find that he was and had been for some time seriously ill of carbon-monoxide poisoning.

For the most part, Byrd is his own commentator. At first, his unprofessional, undramatized presentation, delivered quite unemotionally, seems at odds with the magnitude of the drama being unfolded. Then, as one becomes accustomed to his manner of delivery and his Virginia accent, this something new that has been added to replace those over-manicured tone-poems of the conventional, silver-tongued commentators rings the bell. Strictly factual is Admiral Byrd's running comment, and somehow that is right, for the history he and his men have helped to write needs no pallid adjectives or glorification.

And so, with the terse, factual reporting style of a competent newspaperman, Adm. Byrd etches for us the No-Man's-Land of the Antarctic to which his expedition returned 14 years after they discovered Little America.

"It was not where we left it," he said. "Fourteen years of an ice age had moved it at least a half-mile. Had we to dig for the Administration Building."

As he talked, their ship was nearing but painstakingly avoiding the great ice barrier, a menacing expanse of ice 500 by 400 miles and possibly 500 feet in thickness.

50 Profile of Worl's Bes' Darn Lady Gawlfah--Babe

Mrs. Zaharias

By AUSTEN LAKE

BABE DIDRIKSON ZAHARIAS is to feminine sport what Joe Louis is to boxing, Bobby Jones was to golf, Man o'War to horse racing, Eddie Shore to hockey, Bill Tilden to tennis, Babe Ruth to baseball, Jim Thorpe to football and so on through athletic immortality. There has never been another woman like her—thank goodness! And this eulogy is not alone because she becomes the first U.S. lady golfer to snatch the British title. It's because she was that kind of gal ever since being born during a storm at sea to the wife of a ship's carpenter.

In a small way I was present at the genesis of Babe's golfing career when she was a gingham lass with tubular frame, piano wire muscles and doorstep jaw who came to Boston with the House of David ball team. Babe was one of the team's pitchers, and a good one—not the kind who threw duck-wing lobbs, but burned the ball over with lots of umph.

So she sat in our sports emporium and voiced her dream in the soft silblants of Texas. "Some day," she drawled, "Ah'm gonna be the bes' darn woman gawlfah in the worl'." It wasn't a piece of bombast. It was a plain statement of inescapable fact.

THAT AFTERNOON, out of morbid curiosity, I watched Babe fling the ball for a few innings at Braves Field. She had a loose overhand motion and a disconcerting flirt of an angular hip. Her curve wasn't much, merely what the boys call a wrinkle, but her speed was better than college freshman age. Also her mound manner and preamble to delivering the ball was highly stylish and much on the order of Warren Spahn's, with a deep body bow, an arm rock, and a high leg-kick that was pretty to see.

Babe, at the time, was a wistful girl, bam midway between masculine flats and hollows and soft feminine swells and rubbery curves. She could throw a javelin, run the hurdles, both high and low, and high jump better than any member of her sex and most of the ugly gender. And there was that time when, in a boxing exhibition with the late Willie Stribling, staged as a publicity gag, she took careful aim between Willie's ears and fetched him a right-hand lick that drew crimson from his nostrils. Afterward she pretended to be a wee bit mournful about this and apologized to Willie, saying, "Ah didn't mean to hit yuh so ha'd."

During her earlier days, by the nature of her physical gifts Babe was denied the camaraderie of her own sex and was viewed with uneasiness by men. She affected none of the girlish graces or art postures and, by some instinct, she shunned feminine fripperies, flounces and gawds, although once at a Texas County Fair she took a first prize for needlework and always was a practiced hand in the kitchen.

So Babe hung suspended between the social sets so to speak and sought solace in her own attainments. Thus she said to me in 1934, "A gurl caint get nowhere in baseball. So ah'm goin' into gawlf. Ah'll make 'em sit up." For you see, there was no faked shyness about Babe, nothing timid about her ego. If she had been in Gertrude Ederle's day of channel swimming, or Sonja Henie's time of figure skating or Helen Wills' era in tennis, she'd have said, "Ah guess ah'll go out an bus' their recahds" and then, like as not, would have done it.

In the 1932 Olympics, when her lithe figure flashed up to the casting law at Los Angeles and she threw the steel-tipped spear to a new women's record, she turned to the judges and said, "Pshaw! It sleee-uped out'n mah haaind."

I RECALL STANDING near a tee at the Sarasota Golf Club in 1936, watching the Babe hit the pellet with an effortless swing that tagged the frisky missile nearly 300 yards away. And that was a scant 18 months after she first swung a golf mallet. Yet even then, as a novice, intent of the formal position of elbows, knees and chin at the various stages of the stroke, she hit some goshawmighly swipes true as rifle shots.

The turning point in her rough and tumble manner came some years before her marriage to Zaharias, the ex-wrestler. It came in the summer of 1936 when, after winning several amateur tournaments, the sacrosanct Golf Association labelled her professional and unfit for both common and payless players—a matter they later rescinded. Momentarily she was at a loose end until Gene Sarazen teamed with her on a mixed tour and showed her how to cash in on her talents.

It was Gene, a theatrical genius and the world's best man's golfer of his time, who brightened Babe in tasteful clothes so that her cottons were replaced with trim and carefully matched wools. So, gradually, Gene discouraged her sprawls and loose-jointed attitudes and taught her the parlor graces. And gradually, too, she dropped her Texas drawl and no longer drooled her vowels. So that the last time I saw her, which was in St. Petersburg, Fla., she had emerged from her chrysalis shell and had put on butterfly wings. She even pinked her nails and dabbed faint lipstick on the thin curves of her lips. This was a concession to the ladies, for she never made any concession to the gents, most of whom she could lick at any game of their own choosing. Still, she has never quite erased all the old Babe, as is noted when she answered a British sport writer's query on how she got so much distance on her wood shots. "Oh, I just loosen my girdle and let the ball have it!" And so she did—to England's stark, flabbergasted amazement.

Detroit Lone Holdout As Sox Turn on Lights

By HERB FINNEGAN

Effulgent, grandiloquent, monumental. Those were the adjectives publicity man Eddie Doherty used when he described Fenway's new lights, under which the Red Sox play their first Boston arclight game tonight against the Chicago White Sox. Tommy (The Good) McCarthy expressed it more simply: "The best," he said.

They are the best, no question. They're the latest, so they must be the best. Look at Braves Field or Yankee Stadium, and you'll see lights that approximate the best. Because they're the newest.

The Sox are the seventh club in the league to park under lights. Detroit is the lone holdout, and judging by Billy Evans' talk in the Motor City recently, Detroit will have lights next year. "This park is ideally constructed for lights," hinted the Tigers' general manager, who usually has an eye on the gate.

Night ball is here to stay. It was first introduced to the minors in 1924 and proved a lifesaver. Cincinnati, in 1934, was the first big league club to adopt the arca. Brooklyn was next, and it was under Brooklyn in arcs in '38 that Johnny Vander Meer pitched the second of his two successive no-hitters.

Cleveland was the first American League club to install lights. That happened in June of '39, and it was such a success that Chicago's White Sox adopted the night idea in August of the same year.

Harry Garbner is in Cleveland now, was in Chicago when night ball was endorsed.

"They've all got to come around to it," he said. "Multi-millionaire owners like Yawkey and Briggs can hold off as long as they like because they don't have to think of the money angle. But they've got to think of the fans' angle."

"No matter what you say or think or do, the fact remains that most baseball fans work in the day. The only chance they have to see a game is at night. You were here last Monday. Game drew 7580. Tuesday we played a night game and drew 49,787. See the difference? It wasn't between Monday and Tuesday; it was between day and night."

(Cleveland and the Red Sox drew 7574 on Wednesday, advertised far and widely as Cy Young Day. That's further proof.)

"The more people you draw at the gate, the better salaries you can pay your ball players," Garbner continued, and the better ball you'll see. "Also, the night field is unlimited as to fans."

He sketched a history of American League arclight ball.

"The Browns in '40 followed Cleveland and Chicago by two years," he said. "Next came the A's and Washington in '43. New York in '46 and now Boston. You noticed New York broke the all-time attendance record last year. Night baseball was the main reason. Certainly it wasn't the constant change in managers (McCarthy, Dickey, Neun)."

"Night baseball could have been introduced successfully 35 years ago," said the general manager who is now working for unorthodox Bill Veeck. "In fact, we introduced it in Chicago in 1912. That's the truth. It was a post-season game. The White Sox played the Logan Squares. Jimmy Callanan managed the White Sox and owned the Logan Squares, a fast semi-pro club.

justed. But we played the game, the attendance was good and if day baseball wasn't drawing too well at the time, I believe we would have switched to the arclights."

The Red Sox switch to the lights tonight. They're already sold out or nearly so for every night game they've scheduled this year, despite the fact they aren't playing ball as they did a year ago.

Mark this: It won't be long before all week-day games, majors as well as minors, are played at night. The customer is always right.

Dick Metz Shoots 70 To Lead in Open Golf

ST. LOUIS, June 13 (AP)—Dick Metz of Arkansas City, Kan., shot a one-under-par 70 today in the second round of the U. S. open golf tournament, for a 36-hole total

London Writer Says Babe Victim Of Hostile Tactics

LONDON, July 13 (INS)—The British press, perhaps piqued by the fact that Britishers have lost the men's amateur, the women's amateur, the British open and the Walker Cup titles to American golfers, today started picking on Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias, of Denver, Col.

The London Daily Express correspondent at Gullane, Scotland, where the Babe won the British women's amateur golf championship, stated confidentially:

"The fact is, the Babe has not been entirely popular. She denies she has had anything but the best treatment, but the fact is she has been the loneliest woman in Gullane this week. On the eve of the first day's play, somebody piled furniture outside the door of her hotel room.

"And yesterday, when Mrs. Zaharias asked for a cigaret in the clubhouse after winning the championship, a voice from behind said quietly:

"I've got some arsenic."
"The Babe whirled around and said:
"Who said that?"
"The only answer was a laugh."

Italian-Americans Fete Concord's School Track Star

Val Muscato, Concord High School track star and recently accepted at Notre Dame, will be honored at the coming "father and son" sports night to be held by the Italian-American Charitable Society, June 16, at the New England Mutual Hall.

On that night he will be awarded a trophy as the outstanding Italian-American athlete in New England. His father, Anthony, has also been invited.

Johnny Garro, sports editor of La Notizia, will be master of ceremonies, and James Biggio is chairman of the event.

Among other Italian-American athletes who will attend are Dom DiMaggio, Eddie Pelligrini and Sam Mele of the Red Sox, Aldo "Buff" Donelli, football coach at B. U., Red Priest, Tony Shucco and a host of others.

Prizes of autographed baseballs, gloves and bats will be given to the children. The 1946 World Series picture and "Take Me Out to the Wigwam" will be shown.

of 139, tying a tournament record set by Chick Evans, Jr., in 1916. The 40-year-old Metz, who has been a successful money golfer for 17 years, succeeded on the windswept, 6532-yard St. Louis Country Club course today where many of the players, among them favorite Bobby Locke of South Africa, were having trouble.

Locke, usually a brilliant putter, was unsteady on the greens and turned in a 36-38-74 for a 36-hole total of 142, even par for that distance.

Metz turned the record-equaling trick with two rounds of nearly perfect golf. He was over par on only one of the first 36 holes. That was on the 325-yard, par-four sixth today, when he drove into a sand trap and wasted a stroke getting out.

A 25-foot putt for a birdie two on the 188-yard 16th green was Metz' most spectacular shot.

for the annual championships in a star studded program that looms as the tightest affair of its kind since prewar days.

Field events — introducing javelin tossing and discus throwing as well as pole vaulting to the localities—will get underway at 1 p. m., with seeded running events scheduled for a rapid follow-up.

Director Tom Hines of Brookline High School—the force behind the local major meets—has taken over command this year for the NE's, giving assurance that there'll be orderly progression and well-graded heats in all events. And as one of his first moves, and one that will meet with unanimous approval everywhere, he has purposely handed Boston Commerce's Carl Joyce with competitive No. 1 as a tribute to his grand performance this season.

The number will be quite fitting. Joyce, the National Junior 880-yard champion, has been the talk of the track world in scholastic circles. And if a record is to be broken in the course of the afternoon, he's the logical choice to do the smashing.

Joyce has been pitted against a select field, which, although it hasn't beaten his time of 1:56.6, will be capable of pushing the bookkeeper to the limit. He'll be racing against Ken Charles, Melrose; Joel Tobey, Barrington, Vt.; Lesard, Rochester, N. H.; Hardy, Waterville, Me.; Breaux, Hartford, Ct.; Stolkier, Warren Harding, Ct.; and Gardiner, Stratford, Ct., in the half mile specialty.

The best mark among the opposition is held by Charles (1:59.2) and then Breaux (1:59.8).

Director Hines' choice for the best competition of the meet will be the 440-yard run with three Mass. representatives meeting five state champions. Irving Howe, Jr., Boston English, has the best time in past performances with a 50.3 against Val Muscato, Concord (50.7); John Packard, Lexington (51.6); Bob Kingman, Hope, R. I. (53); Bill Nolan, Lyndon, Vt. (51.7); O'Leary, Portsmouth, N. H. (54.2); Richardson, Portland, Me. (53.6), and Gorman, Bethel, Ct. (51.6).

Local milers, against an imposing field headed by La Salle (Prov. R. I.) Louis Lepry, will be John Wathen, Watertown, and Jim Gallagher, Fitchburg, in the seeded heat. Lepry has hit 4:32 for the distance against Wathen's best of 4:38.4 and Gallagher's 4:39.1.

Quincy Bay Yielding Good-Sized Catches

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

It would seem that the weatherman is a fisherman after all, and he evidently took notice of our recent letter, for the last three days' warm spell has speeded up the sport in local waters. Cod, pollock and flounders are being boated by the bushels in nearby Quincy Bay, the catches all good-sized ones. Mackerel are due three next month, numerous anglers eagerly awaiting the arrival of this scrappy species.

At Harvey's Wharf, Hough's Neck, George Elliot has more than 30 craft available for the haul-and-haul contingent, as well as bait plenty. Mr. Elliot plans to build another 60 boats for next season, providing he can obtain the necessary lumber.

Scores of salt water sportsmen will head for Cape spots this week-end, where striped bass are schooling. Buzzards Bay, of course, will attract throngs, everyone hoping to tie into a big bull bass. Average catches in the Bay are averaging from 8 to 15 pounds at present. Many strippers have been taken from the Weweantic River during the past week, and scattered specimens have been hooked in the Parker River.

Back from a trip to Canton, Me., Dick Sherman, of the Hingham Sportsmen's Club, together with three companions, managed to fill their creels with a total of 172 smallmouth black bass, caught in Lake Anasaggon, Ont. L. O. G. Round, and Worthley Ponds, in 4 1/2 days' angling. . .

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

WHEN ANY OF DOC'S GOLD-LINED PATIENTS HAVE A LITTLE COLD HE'S OH, SO SOLICITOUS

YOU'RE TO STAY IN BED THREE DAYS! COMPLETE REST IS THE ONLY WAY TO CURE A COLD. I'LL SEND A VAPORIZER FROM THE DRUGSTORE... BUT REMEMBER YOU'VE GOT TO REST.

Thank to A FEW DOCS' WIVES I KNOW -

By Jimmy Hatlo

BUT JUST LET HIS WIFE HAVE LA GRIPPE. THAT'S DIFFERENT.

RUPPERT-AREN'T YOU GOING TO GIVE ME SOMETHING FOR MY COLD?
 AW, FER CRYIN' OUT LOUD! YOU KNOW WHERE THE ASPIRIN IS! DON'T BOTHER ME! WORK IT OFF! SO LONG!

Fusari Bout Aired on WCOP and WLAW Tonight

In going after his 49th straight win tonight, Charley Fusari, the unbeaten Irvington, N. J., welterweight, faces a difficult assignment. He tangles with tough Tony Pellone (above) of New York in a ten-rounder at Madison Square Garden. Pellone is determined to mar Fusari's clean slate. Tony is a puncher with a blasting left hook. He's cunning, strong, fast - knows how to sustain an attack. Pellone handed Billy Graham his first defeat after Graham had gone through 58 bouts without a loss.

Fusari is the current hot attraction in the 147-lb. division. For a welter, Charley is tall and rangy. He possesses smashing power in either hand, prefers bing-bang tactics and rarely resorts to fistic science. His string includes 34 knockouts.

Enjoy the excitement, blow-by-blow, on Gillette's Cavalcade of Sports over American Broadcasting Co. and WCOP (1150 on your dial) and WLAW (680 on your dial) at 10 p. m.

And remember, men... LOOK sharp! BE sharp! Use Gillette Blue Blades with the sharpest edges ever honed!
